1. Get Up and Dance. Boogying to the beat during pre-game before a tough football game against Fountain Valley are pepsters Kim McClain, Terri Williams, and Tina Lim.

2. Almost There. And the banner goes up (almost.) The "Go Lions" banner made by last year's pepsters has become a familiar sight to football players as well as fans.

3. But I Just Took A Shower. Harold Muccillo seems to take pleasure in dousing his date Christy Zimmerman, a member of the Homecoming Court, with oatmeal. This act has become a yearly ritual between escorts and candidates during Homecoming week.

4. Not Another Tourist! A white nose, dark sunglasses, and instamatic in the pocket, and a very bright shirt are all part of Lance Robertson's "Hawaiian" get up for the Senior Luau.

front page 1. Time For a Snooze. No, Mrs. Tanners biology class isn't boring. Gary Latronica just got to sleep a little late the night before.

2. In the Distance. Looking away from her work, Denise Hribar glances over her shoulder. Gary looks pretty comfortable.

6:00AM and a blast of today's hits blares over the radio. The dreaded thought of school drags through my head as I get back into the old, so familiar routine of drawing my morning water. Where did summer go? I can still feel the sun's heat beating down on my skin and the sand between my toes. The thought of getting to bed before eleven sounds close to impossible. School. I will have to readjust from the plushness of my beach towel to the cold stiff feeling of a classroom chair. I can see it now, the test papers, spanish books, and Shakespeare staring me in the face.

Lions Take the Reign

1. Involved in Illusions, Junior David Hofmann finds the book Illusions by Richard Bach more interesting than lunch.

2. They've Got the Beat, Leaning to the left, back to the right, and the beat goes on. The drum line performs one of many intense routines.

3. Too Busy to Stop, Dancing, bopping, and moving to the beat is only one thing there was to do at the Senior Luau. Too busy to stop are seniors Joy Lackey, Jeanine Aguirre, Karen Garcia, Dee Dee Rodgers, and Elsa Perez.

4. Off in a Daze, Looking off into space after a tough second period is senior Carrie Bogan.

5. In a Bin, Photographs are only one thing Jack Vandermolen enjoys. He seems to like standing in local trash cans even after the campus is closed.

6. What a Reach, With his opponent close behind Joe Miller of the sophomore water polo team reaches out to pass the ball to a close by teammate.

Lions Take the Reign

Pushing, shoving and scrambling, Oh, how could I forget all this? I sometimes feel being a kamikazi pilot might be of some value when trying to squeeze through crowded halls. It's all the same way I left it last year. Oh yes, Dr. Eastwood still combs the walkways making his daily appearances. The walls are still the old beige, green, and yellow, screaming out for life. Talks of delight over the cute boy or girl in third period still fill the halls and it's all underway once again. School is no longer a distant thought three months away. It is now a reality.

Lions Take the Reign

Four more days and the term paper I was told to start three months ago is due. I have a mid-term in English and geometry angles have me climbing the walls. Heavy loads are being carried by seniors in order to graduate with honors while sophomores and juniors engage in a lighter load of classes. Study; test Friday. Do assignment number six. All of it echoing in my brain. Though I am told that studying is the most important part of school, Friday night sounds great.

1. Busy, Busy, Busy, Off on another errand is Denise Robertson, a Title I tutor. Many students have been able to receive the needed help because of a new aide program.
2. Last Minute Glance, Looking down at test notes before a mid-term is Troy Turner. Last minute "cramming" often seems to be of value.
3. Eyes On Other Things, Although at first glance, drafting student, Thoa Thi Nguyen seems to be studying her work, if one looks a little closer Thoa's eyes seem to be on a Westminster peechee.
4. Not Too Busy, Senior students attending the Senior Luau don't seem to be too busy to flash a smile towards friends.
5. A Pencil Holder?, With a pencil in his left ear and a pen in his right ear, aide Sonny Pau takes one final glance at the attendance sheet before running it up to the office.

Lions Take the Reign

It seems that the running has slowed down to a quick walk. Abby walkway stretches down the middle of campus basking in serenity when classes are in session and quiet reigns. But even then, activities are seemingly everywhere. I'm always being approached by someone asking me to spend money on this jam, or to buy that stuffed animal. My pockets are constantly being drained by supporting every class, and I have had it up to my ears with National Gopher Week. Thank goodness these activities play a minor part of school.

1. Stomp Clap, Involved in leading a cheer entitled "Stomp Clap", is Sharon Tossey.

2. Crazy Socks! Showing off her award winning socks is freshman Winnie Gooch. A sock decoration contest was held with the theme "Sock it to the Sea Hawks" which is the mascot for a local rival school.

3. Oingo Boingo, No, not the group, the moves. Sock hops after football games are an all time favorite as demonstrated by Brian Manson, Jack Trani, and Peter Wilson.

4. Shake, Shake, Shake, A streak of red and white moves through the dance floor. Not only do the familiar paper pom poms wave through the stands at football games, they also add to this student's dance.

5. Here They Come, Looking towards the mob ready to dash through the doors to get the best seats at a pep rally, is song leader Peggy Thelander.

1. The Right Folder? Locker open and papers out Jackie Aléman makes sure she has the proper assignment for her next class.

2. Good to the Last Bite, Hand on hip and twinkle in hand Darrelle Woo looks ready to challenge anyone who would dare to snatch her last bite.

3. We Did it Again, Students look pleased at the fact that their section won the competition yell. Although done quite often, it's always fun to see who can out shout the other.

4. Lending a Helping Hand, One reason for successful rallies is Joni McWilliams, Minister of Social Affairs. Having a spare moment Joni puts the last knot on Scott Engedahl's blindfold to get him ready for a small prank.

5. Freshmen! Freshmen!, Stand up and cheer! With the encouragement of the freshmen yell squad freshmen were coaxed to give a little squeal during a noon rally.

Lions Take the Reign

Excitement of the first day of school, the homecoming, Christmas formal and the spring vacation are all behind. During the year we've enjoyed the good and tolerated the boring. We've tried hard to do well, and for most of us it has paid off. After working hard all year the students are impatiently awaiting summer vacation. While underclassmen are anticipating the freedom of summer, the seniors feel skepticism about venturing into an adult world where reality reigns supreme.

Lions Take the Reign in Activities

1. Toes Knees Hips Shoulders, It looks somewhat like an exercise but it's actually a popular dance. Craig Hayden seems to be able to keep up with the new wave beat.
2. Hanging Out, Some run to the lunch line and others can't wait to get home; Dennis Romoff seems to prefer watching the sights.
3. Nutrition?, Hi-C and chips seems to be a favorite lunch for Julie Melvin, who looks absolutely ecstatic about eating it.

Activities Bring About Enjoyment

Throughout the year Pep Rallies were held to raise school spirit for that night's game. We had sock hops, which were held in the gym after home games. Many people intend to dance, but only socialize. The traditional Peasant's Prom was held on Halloween night and everyone dressed in their favorite costumes. Most seniors went to the Senior Luau, where they had Hawaiian foods and Hawaiian dancers.

There were always plenty of couples at the Valentine's Dance in February. The Christmas Formal, and the Junior-Senior Prom were considered by many to be the two most important dances of the year and were always looked forward to. A few quotes were said about the activities:

"I think that the activities kind of promote students to want to come to school."
Cecilia O'Conner

"They are very enjoyable."
Christy Zimmerman

1. Keeping The Beat, for the pep rally are members of the drum line Tom Yin and Darren Smith.
2. And There's The Line-up, Names of the varsity football players cover the balcony in Buckingham Square. This tradition during homecoming week has become a colorful favorite.
3. A Burst of Action, Football players show their strength by breaking through the posters.
4. He'd Rather Be Sailing, Mike French gazes over the Senior Luau antics while aboard a boat.
5. Donna Sibly tries not to step on the bug while Elena Patterson and Dena DeGregory keep on dancing.

C.I.F. Winning Baseball Team Heads Highlights of '81

Sock Hops, Proms, Winter Formals, Foxy Frolics, football games, and baseball games were all part of the activities that have taken place throughout the year of 1981. For instance, baseball had a successful season. Through a lot of hard work and effort, they made it all the way to C.I.F. and beat Edison at Anaheim Stadium. Also, our coach, Rick Hayes, was chosen as Coach of the Year.

Sock Hops in particular were highlights of student activities. They provide the student with a chance to display exotic forms of dance, which entailed "The Worm", "The Pogo", and many others.

Preceding each Sock Hop was a traditional football game, where some of the greatest arousals of school spirit were to be found. Cheerleaders, students, and faculty as well.

A rather exciting event tended to be Foxy Frolics performances. These devoted members worked hard and, by illustrating their talents, made our school proud.

Following along, we see the Prom. The Prom was a rather classier version of the Sock Hop, but still was a somewhat informal occasion.

The Winter Formal; the most elated event as well as the most respected occasion of the year. Plans were made far ahead of time as anxious individuals waited for this single night.

1. The Drill Team is warm with pride and blankets.

2. Foxiest Frolic, After Hours takes first prize with 9 to 5.

3. Prom Night, Participants are enjoying time between dances.

4. Coach of the Year, Rick Hayes brings fame to our baseball team.

5. Sock Hop '81, They haven't changed much.

6. Santa Drops in, Winter Formal is a cool success.

7. Big "A", We have arrived. '81 baseball team wins C.I.F.

Do Pep Rallies Spark Student Spirit Or Just Provide a Ditch Pass?

The pep rallies are designed to pick up the school spirit in everyone prior to a game. About two thousand students gather to see the pep rally.

The pepsters did a fantastic job in the planning and setting up of the pep rallies. They made them very enjoyable, humorous and exciting. There were various different types of contests on which the freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior classes competed. The majority of the student body showed up to cheer for their class. The sport coaches also participated to help make it even more interesting.

Most students attended to show their school spirit. Some went just to get out of class. However, the majority of students went to show their school spirit and pride.

"They need to have more publicity. What I mean is, they need to say 'Come to the Pep rally!' and publicize it more."
Cindy Miyada

"Tune the microphone. You can't hear it because it's all staticky."

We asked Students: Can We Live Without Romance At School?

We asked students about their feelings about romance on school grounds and these were their replies:

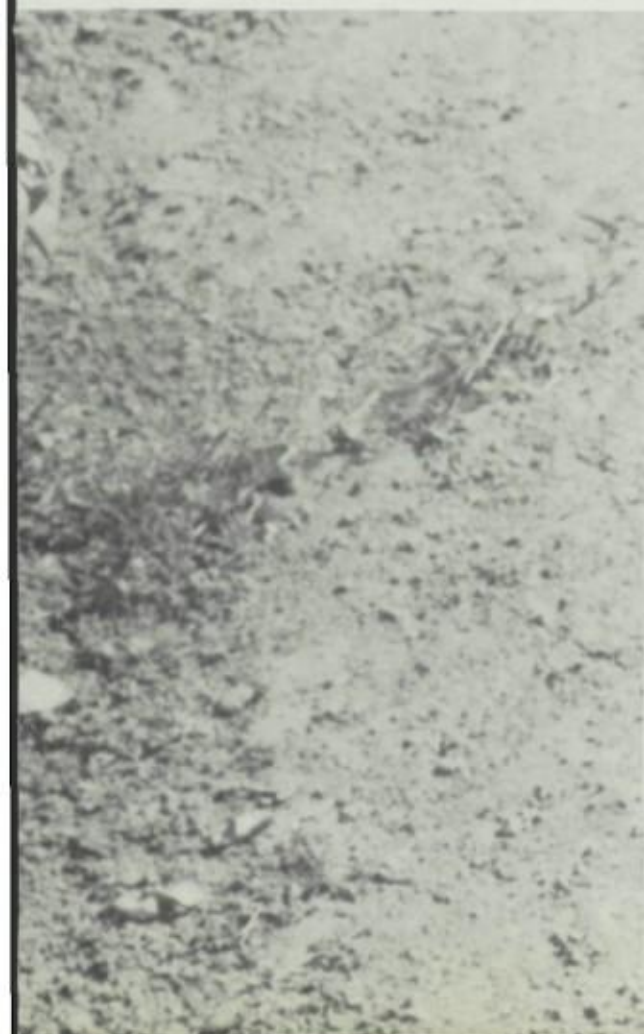

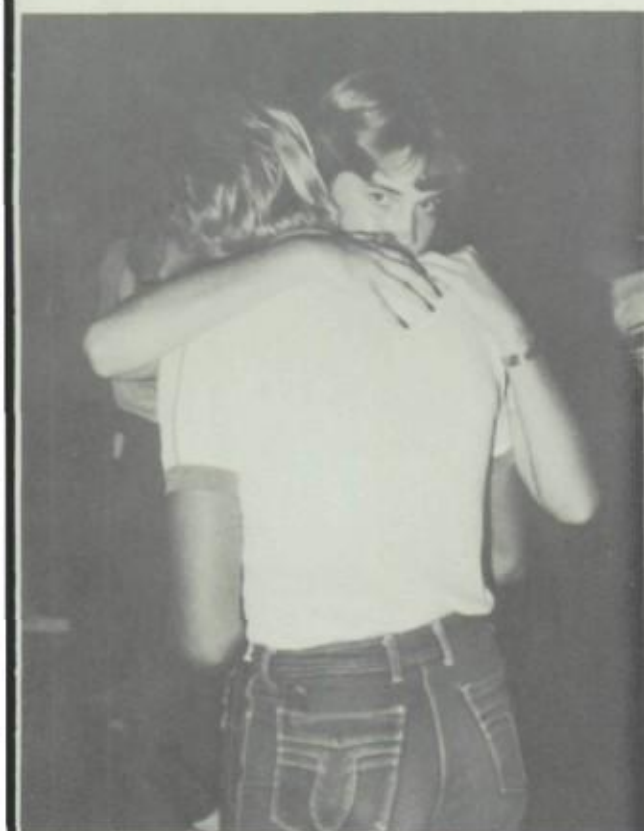

"I think romance should be handled off school grounds. A little kiss here and there is okay, but when it turns into a scene, that's when it has to go," says CZ.

"I think it is great to have romance in school. It gives it more pizazz," says an anonymous person.

"I could live without it," says L.M.

"There is no way I would come to school without having romance," says S.M.

Seniors Grab A Bit Of Paradise

Coconuts, pineapples, and grass skirts were all a part of the senior paradise, held on the tenth of October. The Hawaiian atmosphere was well created with pictures, music, and lovely decorations. All these elements made an authentic, enjoyable evening.

The senior class was pleasantly entertained by six enchanting hawaiian beauties, including Alfred Tananunu, Herbie Cambell, Mike Wilson, Sonny Pau, Scott Engadahl, and Bryce Rugraff. Their enthusiasm was overwhelming.

Upon entering the luau the seniors voted for the king and queen of the luau. The two people who won this honor were Lorraine Beza and Herbie Cambell. This well attended Senior "event of the year" helped the class unite, and helped the lions take the reign.

1. Dazzling. Alfred Taunanunu dazzles the senior crowd after the luau with his fire dance.

2. King and Queen of the Night. Senior Luau King and Queen Herbie Cambell and Lorraine Beza were crowned at the Senior Luau.

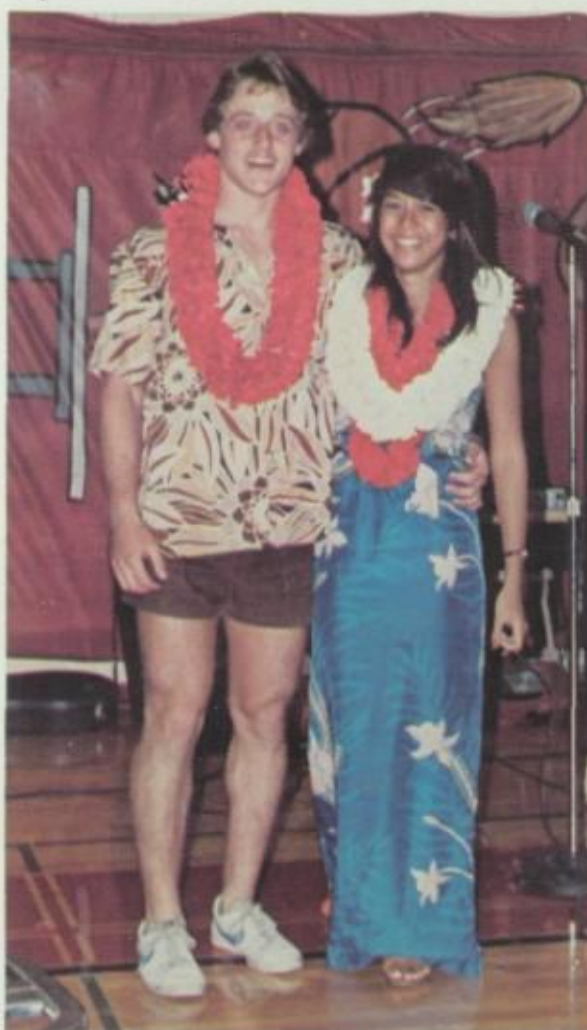

3. Lovely Ladies. Alfred Taununu, Herbie Cambell, Sonny Pau, Mike Wilson, and Scott Engadahl show off their swaying hips at the Senior Luau.

4. Hungry Hawaiian's. Terrence Kelly, Edwin Mitchell, Danny Wong and others enjoy a Hawaiian meal.

5. Polynesian Pleasure. Karen Haas, Kelly Haas, Sandy Williams, Nadine Gout, and friends are enjoying themselves watching the Polynesian dancing.

6. Gone Nuts. Celeste Rodriguez enjoys herself at the Senior Luau.

7. Dance the Night Away. Laura Kurata and Principal Doctor Eastwood share a dance together.

Career Faire Pays Off

On September 25, during an extended lunch period, the first annual career faire took place under the joint efforts of the work experience office here on campus, the coastline regional occupation program and the community at large. During this faire, which came to life after a request from the business community, a large percentage of students joined in or stopped by to express their interest or to sign up for CROP. Some of the professions represented consisted of law enforcement, business and commercial, paramedic, word processing, automotive, cosmetology and funeral directors. This faire was an overall success and will be a future interest for students with unanswered questions.

1. Being involved, Suzanne Vasquez and Mike Dennes are waiting to help students, and enjoying themselves.
2. A curious student asked questions, A paramedic from the Westminster Fire Department answers several questions, that a student asked.
3. Automotives sparks student's life, Paul Pierce and friends enjoy asking questions about cars and engines.
4. Beauty, Students listen to a speaker on cosmetology.
5. We're in the army now! A student receives helpful advice on a career in the military field.

People Being People

One of the aspects of student life was that there were so many different types of people that hung around in different groups. For instance, there were different racial groups that seem to engage in activities of their own choosing. And then there were other social groups who clung together like bees in a hive.

Another aspect of student life was the academic point of view. Students studied every chance they got to be accepted into C.S.F. and graduate as a Seal Bearer. Getting to know how to deal with all the personality types is a byproduct of a good education.

Take an Inside Look

One of the five girls chosen by the student body as homecoming candidate, Christy Zimmerman related her experiences. "I had a blast!" states Christy, referring to the entire event that began three weeks prior to the crowning moment with the homeroom vote. When asked what was going through her mind the night of the event, she said, "I was very honored to be chosen as one of the finalists." When she didn't receive the crown Christy remembers, "My disappointment was overcome by the happiness I felt when my good friend won."

The Sweets Are Made Sweeter

A Victorian Affair started Wednesday morning at 4:00 a.m. when the court and their escorts were kidnapped by the House of Lords and dressed up in costumes. That day the court had to run an obstacle course. The winners of the race were all five girls. Another day a pie throwing contest was held for each girl. Students bought a pie and threw it at the girls they bought it for.

The event most students waited for during Homecoming week was the day the five beautiful candidates, Laura Kurata, Laurie Clarkson, Christy Zimmerman, Shelley Segars, and Jackie Martinez were creamed by their escorts. The escorts received tomato paste, honey, flour, peanut butter, glitter, eggs, etc. . . . to pile on the girls and mix it up.

The girls were real sports about the mess they were in; they knew it was just the beginning.

1. What fun! Andy Arajo and Laura Kurata enjoy themselves.

2. What a mess! Harold Muccillo does not miss Christy Zimmerman with food!

It's Cheerleading Try-outs Once Again!

1981-83 pepster try-outs began Nov. 19 with an information meeting attended by all prospective pepsters. Then they went on to a week of clinics where the girls learned their first screening routine to be performed in front of a panel of judges the following Tuesday. Girls making the first cut went on to the second screening where they performed an original routine. Girls making the 2nd screening then went on to a week of campaigning and the final third screening. On Dec. 16 the remaining girls performed their original routine in front of the student body in the gym. Many of the girls appeared nervous, but with an excited glow on their faces. We asked some of the girls how they felt about performing in front of most of the students in the school. They stated:

"It was a neat experience, and kind of scary."

Dena DeGregory

"Waiting for the day to finally come was the worst part, but it isn't as bad as it seems performing in front of the school."

Angela Sowers

We also got some reactions from the students who watched the try-outs.

"It's good for the school morale to be able to pick their own cheerleaders."

A Winter Wonderland

The Christmas Formal which was held on December 11 was a real success according to many students who attended. For the second time, it took place at Anaheim Convention Center from 9 P.M. to 1 A.M.

The drum roll came for the crowning of that future king. The candidates who were selected by our own Student Body were Mike Waters, Herb Campbell, Steve Osborn, Sonny Pau, and Gerardo Llamas. The throne was given to Steve Osborn, and students were pleased with the choice.

Dining out is usually what students do before they head for the formal, but some couples fixed a quiet candlelight dinner in their own home this year. Nevertheless, many couples dined at the most exquisite restaurants such as Cattlemen's Wharf and Orange Hill.

Crowning Highlights Royal Festival

"Celebration of the Crown", the theme for coronation, was an evening to remember. All of the court sat on the sidelines waiting patiently. The ladies: Celeste Rodriguez, Jackie Plant, Renae Olson, Helen Miller, and Kelley Hoffman, were accompanied by their fathers. The gentlemen: Richard Nelson, Jim Dunk, Lance Robertson, Rex Dilin, and Jerry Bailey were accompanied by their mothers.

As they waited for half time, they reflected on the events of the previous week, the activities during lunch, "Tea Time" and "The Balloon Toss" just to name a few.

Finally half time arrived, the court walked down the aisle bordered with members of drill team. Each member of the court wondered who would be crowned King and Queen. "Drum roll . . . envelope please . . . ladies and gentlemen it gave us a great pleasure to announce Lance Robertson and Renae Olson as our 1982 Coronation King and Queen."

Brains Vs. Brawn

"Brains and muscles do mix," said students around campus years ago. When a student was in a sport they were known for their lack of intelligence. But years progressed and now they are mostly known for their smarts.

Students who are not in sports find school a learnable experience even without the aid of sports. Students who enjoy studying, usually discard sports, because they feel they are missing out on learning, but these who pick both studying and athletics seem to get enough of both to suit them.

Grades play a big part to students who are in a sport. They have to keep up their G.P.A. and still find time to practice and play games. This is difficult. Some of them even have jobs, which complicates the matter even more. In spite of all difficulties, many student athletes succeed. The average athletes receive good grades.

Students who are not in sports have it a little easier. Students who are in athletics might not receive as much learning. Perhaps less learning is a sacrifice they are willing to make.

Magic Moments Strike Many at the Valentine's Dance

The theme "Magic Moments" created a romantic atmosphere for the Valentine's dance, held at the Costa Mesa Country Club on February 20. Couples had a fun evening of entertainment, and a mixture of slow and fast music was provided by the band.

Students enjoyed dancing, conversing with friends, and eating refreshments provided by Teps and Interact. The evening was highlighted with the crowning of the Valentine's King and Queen, Darren Smith and Nadine Gout. The court included Carrie Baker, Diane Dibbs, Laurie Wells, Darren Smith, and Chris Gallup. For all those who participated, it was an evening of "Magic Moments".

1. Valentine's Court — Chris Gallup, Darren Smith (king), Carrie Baker, Laurie Wells, Nadine Gout (queen)
2. Chaperones can do it too — the Valentine's dance is not only for young sweethearts but chaperones as well.
3. Pop and Fresh cookies? — Glen Sato and Stacey Levine decide which cookies look the best to sink their teeth into.
4. Life is a Magic Moment — Sabrina Danna, Gabe Romero, Wendy Hackett, and Mike Hammers take time out from all the excitement to pose for this photograph.
5. The other half of the Valentine's Court — Jeff Loving, Sherri Holton, Kevin Kappen, Dana Kuri, and Bobby Goode at the Costa Mesa Country Club.

Thespians Become "Babes in Arms"

The elite corps of the high school's actors, the International Thespian Society, was actively involved in the spring season's production of the musical, "Babes in Arms." This production was the combined effort of the Thespians, the Chora-leers and Madrigals, led by Rosemary Stevens and Joe Kral, respectively.

Some of the Thespians were involved in the cancelled "Blithe Spirit."

"I think it's a shame that 'Blithe Spirit' got cancelled," said John Sanches, the Thespians current president, "but I think that 'Babes in Arms' will more than make up for it."

During the off-time between produc-tions, the Thespians, along with the par-ent organization, the Globewest Players, did the rounds expected of all clubs: sell-ing popcorn and working the concession stand during football games.

1. The Thespians — Clockwise — Carrie Ho-gan, Craig Fults, (Vice-Pres., Rose Marcario, Jimmy Geras, advisor Rosemary Stevens, Kathleen Gun-dling, John Sanches (Pres.)

2. Don't Worry, I'm Awake — Thespians advi-sor Rosemary Stevens instructs her students at re-hearsal.

Globewest Players Per- form to a Full House

For several years, the Globewest Players had performed many and varied plays, such as "Star-Spangled Girl," "How the Other Half Loves," "Antio-gone," and "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Unfortunately, this fall season's production of "Blithe Spirit" was cancelled because of production problems. Rose Marcario, the Globewest Players' current president, performed in all but the first of these productions.

There have been two musicals performed by the Globewest Players. "The Wizard of Oz" and "Babes in Arms" were produced by Globewest Players advisor Rosemary Stevens, in co-operation with Choraleers and Madrigals advisor Joe Kral.

None of these plays would have been possible if not for the less visible members of the Globewest Players: the behind-the-scenes movers, lighting crew and sound technicians.

Citadel Staff Creates a Masterpiece

In G-7, at 4th period, there gathered a group of people quite unlike any other. Although very creative and talented, these people were very much human, and the pressure of producing the Citadel yearbook wore heavily upon them.

For four years, Shelley Segars had worked on the yearbook staff, two of those years as its editor-in-chief. She had more than enough experience to handle the job. She kept up the pressure by constantly reminding everyone of their deadlines.

Another person who worked especially hard was Lisa O'Brien. In addition to editing and writing for the underclassmen section, she was the advertising manager, a photographer, and the designer of this yearbook's cover.

Along with the "veterans," there were also newcomers to the staff who were not used to the deadlines, the scheduling of pictures, etc.

Newspaper Staff Presses On

The Journalism Staff was not the typical crew of previous years. With a returning staff of only three editors, and an editor-in-chief with only a rookie year's experience, the staff managed to produce an exceptional and reputable publication.

Under the guidance and supervision of advisor, Karen Friedrich, many changes were in the production of the Scroll (newspaper), and the Harvest (magazine). Among these changes were a new logo for the newspaper, and a wider spectrum of subject matter to reach a larger and more diverse population of students.

Sign Language Speaks Without Words

Although it is the newest organization on campus, the Sign Language Club had a large amount of members. In its first year it had already twenty-five members, all of whom wished to learn sign language.

The club was founded by two students, Lisa Goodrich and Michelle Swykert. The two of them convinced science teacher Karen Carroll to be the advisor. After much pushing of paperwork, the club was formed, and students began to sign up.

Lisa and Michelle wanted to show not to be afraid of the deaf. To this end, they try to teach people the language of the deaf: the intricate hand signals that can form words.

Michelle explained that the club is more educational than social. As president of the club, she taught the members how to communicate and associate with the deaf. As an activity, they visited a convalescent home and "spoke" with the deaf residents there.

The club wanted to donate any money they made at the bake sale they had to organizations which help the deaf people of California.

Choraleers and Madrigals Sound Off

The Choraleers and the Madrigals, under the direction of music teacher Joe Kral, performed at several places in and out of the school. Each group performed both separately and together.

The Madrigals performed at several invitational festivals, including Chapman College, University of California, Irvine, and Long Beach City College. They performed in the Spring Concert on May 6.

The Choraleers performed about 75 concerts throughout the year. This group sang strictly jazz and show tunes at these concerts. They performed at the Christmas and Pops Concerts.

Both groups performed alongside the Globewest Players and Thespians in the Caberet Theatre. The show's theme was the Fabulous Forties, done in a radio program motif. They also sang in the spring musical "Babes in Arms."

According to Mr. Kral, the Pops Concert was probably better this production because of the new sound system. The music department purchased it especially for the concert.

Grade Hassles Earn Tassles For CSF Members

Membership for the California Scholarship Federation (CSF) was determined by points. An A was worth 3 points, a B was 1 point, a C was 0 points, and a D or F disqualification. Membership was not automatic. Each person had to apply during the first two weeks of each semester following one in which grades were earned.

Those who were in CSF four out of five semesters of High School qualified to be a sealbearer. Sealbearers all received the privilege of wearing a gold tassel for graduation.

"CSF was a good experience. We had several activities and benefits. I think my favorite activity was when we took a group to the Pantages Theater to see Rex Harrison in My Fair Lady. That was a truly enjoyable and learning experience I'll remember for a long time. I was glad to be a member."

Teps Serves the Community

Teps was a service organization to both the school and the community. Membership was open to Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior students. Whoever wanted to join had to fill out an application and answer such questions as "why do you want to join Teps" and "what do you think Teps is."

Teps members collected canned food and money for the needy, painted over graffiti on walls, answered kids' Santa letters, sent needy kids Christmas presents, and they also did other services. Some of the means by which Teps raised funds were by selling Current stationery, working in the concession stands at the football games, and selling See's candies.

"Teps was a good club to be in if you like to do things for other people. It made me feel good whenever I knew I was helping someone else. Besides the good feeling of helping people it also was a very enjoyable group to be in. I also met a lot of nice people."

MECHA

Reunites for an Active Year

MECHA, or the Movimiento Estudiantil Chicano de Atzlan, is a club for active chicano students on campus. The advisor was Mrs. Nunez. The highlight of the year was their annual spring dance. MECHA members have enjoyed a year of fun and of service. Various activities included car washes, popcorn sales, and dances. Money has been raised for scholarships, awarded to graduating members. Previous scholarship winners have included: Charlie Castillo now studying Sociology at San Jose State, and Patty Acobez, a law student at UCLA, and many other students now attending various colleges.

MECHA members have also enjoyed numerous visits to local colleges, and a trip to the mountains with members of MECHA from other schools. In the spring semester, a very successful dance is planned every year by MECHA in which the community and students from other schools are included on the guest list.

GEMA Meets for Their Fourth Year in Existence.

GEMA is a club that was set for the Mexican born students at this school to meet and share problems as well as good times. GEMA, which stands for "Grupo Estudiantil Mexicano Activo," which translates to "active group of Mexican students." The club was also meant to be a service organization. This year they got off to a slow start, but they've raised money through popcorn and candy sales. Some of the funds were distributed as scholarships to graduating, college bound members. There has been club parties, and other activities.

Der Deutsch Klub Amusiert Sich Mit Deutschen Traditionen

The German club was dedicated to the promotion of interest in Germany and its culture. Membership was open to Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior students. Enrollment in German was not mandatory. Working football concessions and selling popcorn were a couple of ways this club raised funds. Here are some comments from the members:

In Latino Credimus!

The Latin club furthered the study of Latin and the cultures of Rome. Members of this club were required to take Latin or have completed the third year. The club had many activities such as picnics, field trips, their annual Christmas party, and their annual Roman banquet. To raise funds they sold stationary, posters, and worked concessions. This is one of the wealthier clubs in WHS. They used their money for scholarships.

"I enjoy being in the Latin club because we get to do a lot of neat activities together making money to do things."

Future Farmers of America Fancy Flora and Fauna

The membership of Future Farmers of America (F.F.A.) has increased in the recent years. F.F.A. is a national organization. It gives students on-the-job training in agriculture and horticulture. They went to judging contests on their horticulture and livestock and on their agricultural products. They also went to state conventions and leadership conferences. They donated Christmas trees to convalescent homes. For funds the members of F.F.A. had a wreath sale, sold pumpkins for Halloween, sold their products, and worked concessions at football games.

Ski Club Shoots Down the Slopes.

The Ski Club was made up of students with one common interest. According to advisor Al Stone, it was easier to have everyone go together as a group, to share expenses and to ski together.

In the past few years, the Ski Club has gone on such trips as Mammoth, June Mountains, Kirkwood, Summit and Snow Valley ski areas. This year they went to Snowbird Ski Resort in Utah over Christmas vacation.

The purpose of the club is not only to ski but to also teach the members who do not know how. The more experienced members instruct the people who do not ski well, making them better skiers.

When they are off the slopes, the club members work the football and basketball concessions.

House of Lords Intrigues the Commoners

House of Lords was created to provide educational activities aside from the regular school curriculum. Among these were the coordination of Homecoming, Coronation, International week, and Generations week. They also planned the Winter Formal, Halloween Competition, all class competition, the Royal Banquet, Teacher of the Year and Student of the Month Selections. They raised funds through the Student Store, Super Leo and ASB card sales, and other activities. Their charitable fundraisers were the United Way week and Child Abuse week.

All the above activities made up an extremely active and productive House of Lords.

House of Lords Takes Precedence

House of Lords has been known as the elected student government leaders on campus. In addition to the nine ministers and the Chancellor there is a president and two commissioners from each class.

The following are opinions of the House of Lords:

"As a comparison to last year the House of Lords is doing excellently. A lot of leadership that's hidden is not being brought out. The House of Lords is serving the school in the capacity that it is supposed to."

Don McCormick

"House of Lords is the backbone to all activities on campus and tries to get the students involved. To me House of Lords is an honor and a lot of responsibility wrapped with excitement and fun. I am glad to be part of House of Lords and the leadership group."

Pepsters Raise School Spirit

Dedicated, inspirational, spirited, and energetic are just a few ways to describe this year's Pepster groups. Working as a total unit, the 1981-82 Pepsters accomplished many goals they set for themselves. The primary goal was to raise the spirit at WHS and to get more students involved. Another was to involve the underclassmen in more active roles. Both goals were accomplished!

Pepsters Are Not Only Talented But Hard Working

An advisor's "Dream group" is the way this year's pepster group is thought of by advisor Janet Whittenberg. "Hard working, dedicated, self-motivating, enthusiastic and sincere is the best description she can come up with when asked about the group. In the 6 and a half years Janet has been coaching cheerleading, this is by far the best all-around group she has been fortunate enough to work with.

"Most people don't realize the number of hours put in by our spirited Lion Pepsters and also for what reason. The main goal of the pepster unit is to promote spirit and sportsmanship in the school and this year's group was no exception."

"The pepsters' successful year got started by" cheering on our CIF 4A championship baseball team at the Big A! Next, the entire unit attended the NCA/CADA camp at the University of California at Santa Barbara, along with the Drill Team, where they gained much knowledge in the art of spiritleading and received awards for their accomplishments. Among the honors received were 5 spirit sticks, numerous ribbons and for the second year in a row, our Varsity Flag team received the Award of Excellence Megaphone. The "Bag Routine" performed at a pep rally was just one of the ideas brought back from camp.

Many hours are spent painting posters, decorating locker rooms and houses, baking goodies for team members, attending games, raising money to pay for everything, and maintaining good grades.

Drill Team and Pageantry March On

The Drill Team and Pageantry boosted the spirit of many with their expert showmanship at a variety of activities. They worked together successfully at the field tournaments through October and November. They had a parade on October 11. In November they had a Knott's Berry Farm Fund-Raising. They also participated in a Disneyland Parade in December.

Some opinions from the fans include the following:

"The Drill Team and Pageantry work hard and they look great. Keep up the hard work!"

Anonymous

"The Drill Team practices a lot and works hard but they don't get to do much. I'd rather be in cheerleading than the Drill Team."

Anonymous

"Drill Team looks terrific. They all stay in step and they look great at the half-times."

Pageantry Corp Steps Out

"Get those knees up and spin together," were just a couple of commands to be heard every day after school for the 16 member tall-flag unit which worked very hard to keep up the winning tradition. Pageantry corp could be seen in various functions such as half-time shows, field tournaments, parades, pep rallies, and much more. Captain Laurie Clarkson did an excellent job in leading Pageantry to another award-winning season. Hours of long, grueling practice were spent preparing and perfecting routines performed with the band and drill team.

During Homecoming week, tall-flag members could be seen around campus selling corsages and boutonnieres, along with the drill team, in what proved to be a big success.

Drill Team Dazzles the Stands

High kicks, dazzling routines, smashing new uniforms, and freshmen were just a part of what went into the 36 member Lionette Drill Team. An important group in the Lion Entertainment Unit, these girls worked many hours to improve their skills to put on award-winning performances at half-times, fieldshow tournaments, parades, and other functions. Performing to Emperata, Sing, Sing, Sing, Malaguena, Ice Castles, and Exits in Exhibition, the competitive numbers used this year were easy for the drill team to perform with perfection. Under the leadership of April Clark, Megan Johnston, Celeste Rodriguez, and Sue Romine, new and innovative ideas were created for great performances.

Over the summer, the drill team attended an NCA/CADA drill team camp at U.C.S.B. with the pepsters in an attempt to build school unity. The drill team was awarded a spirit stick, several ribbons for daily evaluations, and the top camp award, the Award of Excellence Megaphone.

During Homecoming the drill team and pageantry corp sold a record number of corsages and boutonnieres on campus — 1,200!

The Lionettes are to be commended for a very successful season — W.H.S. is proud of you. "Thanks for all of your hard work, and time-consuming dedication — it made 1981-82 a great year." Janet Whittenberg, advisor.

Band Brings Home Awards

The band, conducted by Ken Woesner, brought home the Mayor's Trophy on Founder's Day. As part of the Lion Entertainment Unit, the band performed alongside the Drill Team and the Pageantry Corps.

In the various tournaments, the Lion Entertainment Unit was judged on the combined efforts of all three of its parts, although the Drill Team and the Pageantry Corps are judged separately for each of their performances. The unit won first place at Western High School. At Los Altos High School, the unit took home third place.

The band also performed at football and basketball games, and Pep rallies.

"I think that the band is the best part of the unit. The flags and stuff are okay, though."

Lion Band Takes the Reign

When the band stepped out at the first home football game under the field baton of Drum Major Rick Sesulka, it was quite a sight! Time ran short, making uniforms unavailable, so band members made up their own.

On Founder's Day, the band marched down the parade route and received the Mayor's Trophy for their efforts. Three weeks later, at the Western High School Halftime Show Competition, the Lions took First Place in their class. November saw the hosting of the Westminster Halftime Show Tournament, in which twelve other bands from Southern California participated. The band continued successfully at other tournaments held at Los Altos, La Mirada, and Palmdale. In reward for their great efforts, the band performed at Disneyland in December. The Marching Band Review Concert held in January put the final touch on everything.

We congratulate the band and the whole unit for helping the Lions take the reign!

Lions Take the Reign in Athletics

Varsity Team Expresses Opinions

"Was this year's team an improvement over last year's team?" This was the question asked of this year's team, and here are the results.

Mr. Waters — "I believe our total program has matured. The players not only have accepted, but understand the coaching staff's system. They have paid a price and for the most part made a commitment to our school. We've played well and have won because of team unity and not individual stardom."

Sonny Pau — "Yes, because we have been around the coaching staff a longer period of time, and we know them better."

Edwin Mitchell — "We have a vastly improved ball club over last year because of team unity. Our ball players share."

Ross Maag — "Yes because we are more of a team. We play as a team not as individuals."

1. A disappointed Teammate. Wishing he was still out on the field instead of injured, is Gerardo Llamas

2. Varsity. Top row — Dick Boaler, Price Wood, Jim Wilson, Coach Bowman, George Pascoe, Coach Waters, Coach Bashore, Coach Love, Ron Eagle, Nora Cloke. 2nd row — 35 — Alfred Tauanuu, 28 — David Arrington, 7 — David Neville, 55 — Pete Woeth, 64 — Tim Oliver, 66 — Al Kahn, 78 — Derrick Ryals, 44 — Tal Tamasui, 73 — Richard Brown, 77 — Sonny Pau, 86 — Steve Washbon. 3rd Row — 52 — Carl Swannstrom, 79 — John Brumbaugh, 81 — Steve Ferris, 80 — Kevin Graham, 68 — Jim Dunk, 61 — Scott Miller, 51 — John Meyers, 47 — Rudy Ondiss, 58 — Robert Funke, 85 — Harold Muccillo. 4th row — 50 — Bill Martin, 63 — Doug Kersey, 75 — Tino Gerke, 34 — Herbie Campbell, 60 — Terrey Kelley, 43 — Ross Maag, 69 — Rick Hernandez, 76 — Sal Gonzalez, 65 — Rick Coellar, 13 — Jim Marcin, 32 — Donald Willingham, 5th row — 42 — Scott Bates, 87 — Kevin Dalton, 56 — Mike Loving, 62 — John Sanchez, 45 — Mike Waters, 23 — Edwin Mitchell 29 — Danny Wong, 30 — Gerrardo Llamas, 41 — Jerry Weatherbie, 59 — Eddie Perez, 90 — Bob Meade. Front row — 88 — Robert Depalma, 14 — Eric Burkman, 25 — Tony Meyers, 82 — Dave Bishop, 84 — Buddy Collier, 11 — Eddie Nunes, 22 — Bobby Goode, 24 — James Redmond, 71 — Gary Cooper, 38 — Kevin Finney, 26 — Mark Wood.

5. Help From the Sidelines. Coach Waters and Coach Pascoe give Rudy Ondics the play.

6. On the Sideline. Sonny Pau anxiously awaits his chance to get into the game.

7. Herbie Campbell. Is finally taken down by a defender.

Junior Goes All League

Tal Tamamasui was picked to the first team all league. Though Tal is only a Junior and will not be able to play, he said he was honored to be picked by the coaching staff.

Tal, when asked about the adjustment from the Freshman and Sophomore level up to the Varsity level, he said, "It wasn't very hard adjusting. The only real difference is that there are more people watching you and it is different playing under the lights." He also stated that there is a lot of pressure on you and the team. "The whole school expects us to win every game."

"I have a lot of respect for the coaches. They have helped me on and off the field. They're a great bunch of guys."

Tal plans to go to one of the Pack 10 colleges and hopes to be able to continue playing football into the pros.

1. Cranking up. Dave Neville passes to a waiting receiver.

2. Time-Out Coaches Waters and Pascoe both agree that a time-out is needed.

3. View from the bench. Al Kahn's helmet is all that is seen by a player on the bench.

4. Just tackled. Tal Tamasui is dropped by an Oiler defender after a 20 yard gain.

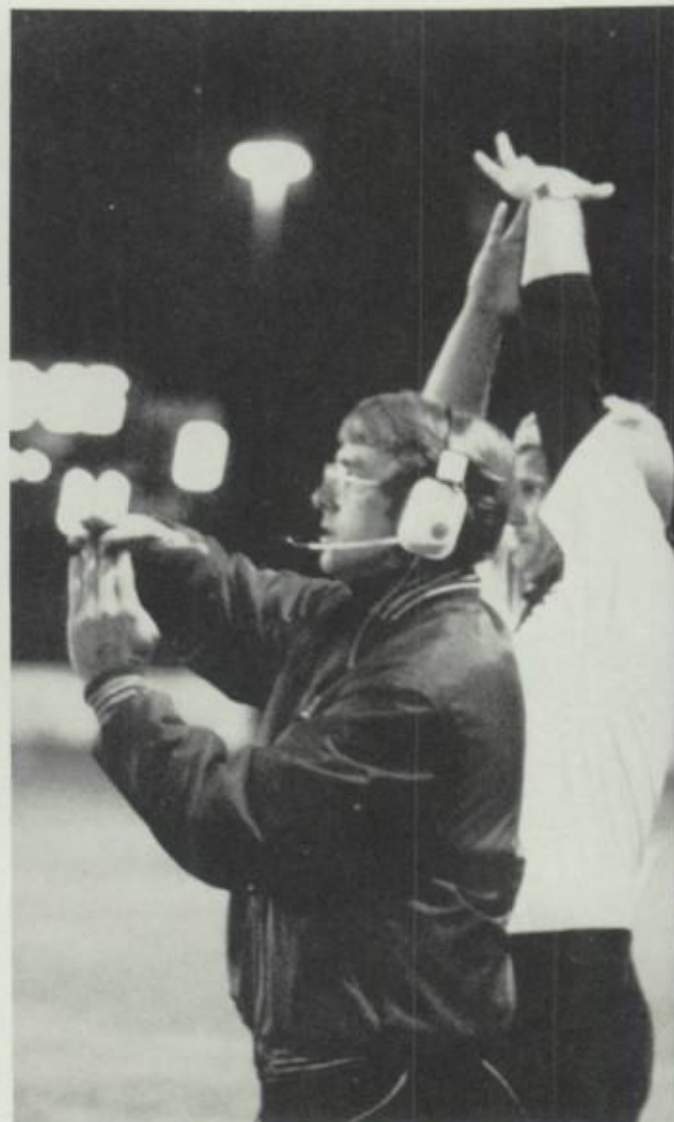

5. Warming up. Ray Berg warms up.

6. In a set position. Down and ready to run the pattern is Steve Ferris.

Sophomore Football Team Wins Sunset League

The sophomore football team boasted a 4-1 pre-season record on route to a sparkling 5-0 Sunset League record. The team had impressive wins over Edison (20-16), Fountain Valley (35-7), Marina (27-0) and went on to become Sunset League Champions. Some team members were asked to comment on the success of the team:

"I think the success of the team can be attributed partly to the success of our line led by Coach Davis."

Del Pickney

"I'm looking forward to next year and a very successful season."

Kevin Kappen

"Everyone worked hard and contributed totally to our fine season."

"Overall our successful season was due to a fine team effort. And, we are all looking forward to another successful season."

3. You're not going to stop me! — Brandon Jones plans his strategy for breaking through the line and goes on to score a touchdown — of course!

4. We're number one! — Sophomore football players form a victory huddle after beating Marina 27-0.

5. I can do it — Tim Valenzuela gets inside his opponent, catches the pass, and puts his team ten yards from the goal.

6. Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery — Bob Charron expresses his joy with the referee's call — a touchdown — one of many scored by the sophomore football team.

The season started as grand as could be
 Then tragedy struck in game number three.
 We picked ourselves up to win again and then came the important game number ten
 It was played on a crisp and chilly night
 Under the glow of the bright light.
 And when the game was finished and done
 We had upped our record to nine and one.
 After the game we went in the pool
 Knowing that the Lions did rule.
 Into the pool went the coaches and team
 Finally realizing our dream,
 In our dream there was the thought of winning
 But we remembered this is the beginning.
 Because next year is '82
 And to repeat as champions will be hard to do.
 But this is still '81 and the season is done and the Westminster Lions are number one.

Frosh Team Reviewed By Coach

After a full season of coaching the freshmen district team coach Kurrle gives us his views of the exciting freshmen team.

"This was one of the most spirited group of athletes I've ever coached. Sure our seasonal record (3-5) was not great, but these kids were fired up from the beginning of the game to the final gun. Our passing was one of the highlights of our attack with quarterback, Ted McMullen throwing to his prime receiver, Ron Weatrowski and secondary receivers, Steve McBride and Shawn Dalton. Paul Ma-sotto, Greg, and Kim Johnson (our band-aid back field — Johnson and Johnson) led our running attack. These athletes, combined with the Sunset Freshman team will have a successful sophomore season — Good Luck Team," states Coach Kurrle.

1. Dropping back, Wood finds there is no one to pass to.

2. What do I do? Coach Kurrle looks for help from the sidelines.

3. Defense stunned, McMillen slips a tackle. All alone, No one close as #13 slips a tackler.

4. Frosh Team — Top row — Coach Jones, Coach Blum, Pau, Ballentine, Hepler, Krajec, Atusia, Coach Arguello, Coach Kurrle. Second row — Hicks, Cleem, Sweeney, Devore, Arguello, S. Burke, Kirifi, Callous, Jolly, Smith. Third row — Anderson, Loving, Dons, Quinn, Ton, Noble, Hill, A. Burke, Nguyen, Walker. Fourth row — Armijo, Weatrowski, Duc, Delgado, Coach Cossarek, Perez, Dalton, McMillen, Connot, Woods. Fifth row — Hardman, Nguen, Avalos, Green, Thomas, Rodgers, Takeda. Front row — Franzen, White, Johnson, Lewis, Torres, Pham, Acosta.

5. Evading the tackler is Ron Weatrowski.

6. California sun makes practice a pleasure for Coach Jones and Kelly Woods.

7. Passing out, the ball is just out of reach of Weatrowski's outstretched hands.

A Pace Well Set

This season for boy's cross country started out like any other season with hard work and a long trail ahead. The returning athletes on the team did well and next year will exceed greater goals. An unusual occurrence took place in that there were no seniors on either varsity or J.V. Next year, however, this incident won't happen because of our returning Juniors, consisting of Kile Morton, Steve Ramsey and others who rageously conquer the rough sport.

Volleyball Wins Sunset League

The 1981 girls' volleyball team was the most successful in the history of the school. The Lions used a powerful offense on their way to a 27 and 7 overall record. The team was the Sunset League Champions, the San Bernadino tournament champions, and ended up tied for fifth in CIF. Junior middle blocker Diane Watson was the MVP of the San Bernadino tournament and the Sunset League, and Connie Watson and Amy Chey were both first team all league and all tournament at San Bernadino.

J.V. Volleyball Co-champions

The Lion J.V. Volleyball team ended the season as Sunset League co-champions with a 7 and 3 league record. Both the junior varsity and the freshman team showed the talent and enthusiasm that will keep the Lions on top in the future.

On the Varsity squad, Ema Tamamasu, a sophomore who is 5 feet 5 inches and a setter for the Lions, has been active in Volleyball for the past five years and as a sophomore has been moved up to Varsity.

"At first I was scared, because I felt that I was too young and inexperienced to play with the older girls who have already had experience."

Now because of the hard practices and the work put into the team she's become more comfortable, and thinks volleyball has the potential to go all the way compared to last year's team who had the defensive play. "We have the height and power."

The Coach of the volleyball team, Mr. Linquist, is held in high esteem by the players, Ema said, "Our team owes Coach Linquist a Big-Thanks."

1. Leaping high. Kim Sprouse deflects a spike against the Oilers.

2. With style. Setting up for a spike, Alenna Cambo jumps high for WHS.

Lions of The Water

Water Polo pulled through with a 1-6 record. Despite the fact the varsity team had a total of eight members, all the games were played with determination and endurance by the team which consisted of Mike Wilson, Scott Engasal, Joe Schuck, Craig Hayden, Phillip Burke, Mike Arrington, Sharon Van Durn, and Hank Mendeze.

The coach, Geoff Habler, was a good teacher and a former water polo player himself. The strong opponents were Edison and Marina.

When asked how they felt about water polo, Mike Wilson, a senior said, "I had a lot of fun in the past four years playing water polo, even though the team never had that much success."

1. Scoring sharply. Scott Palmeron slaps the water after firing the ball.

2. Help! Scott Odasso looks for an open team mate.

3. Gets it off. Matt Schmick fires the ball off towards the goal.

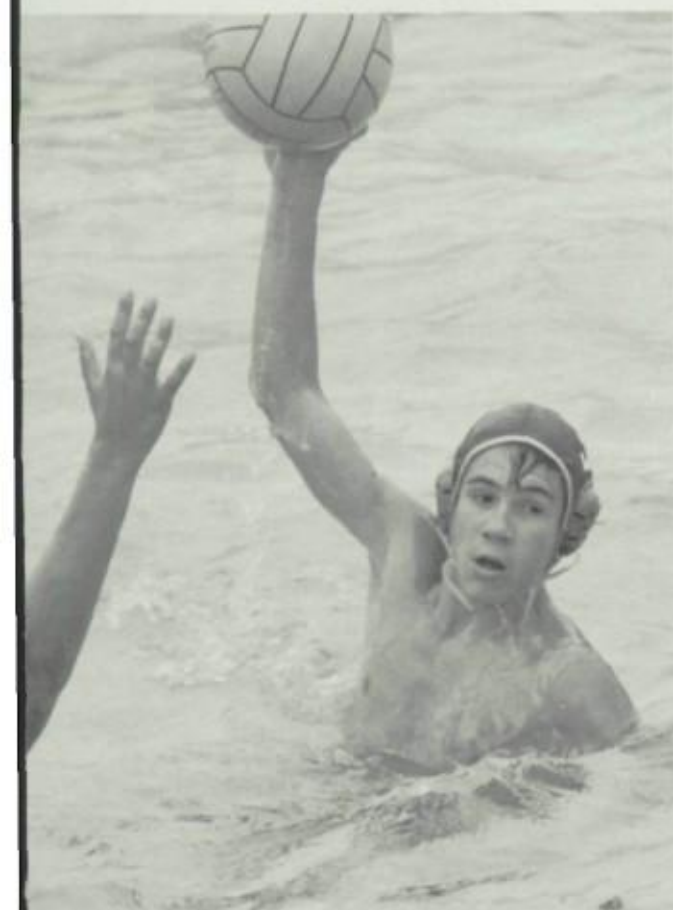

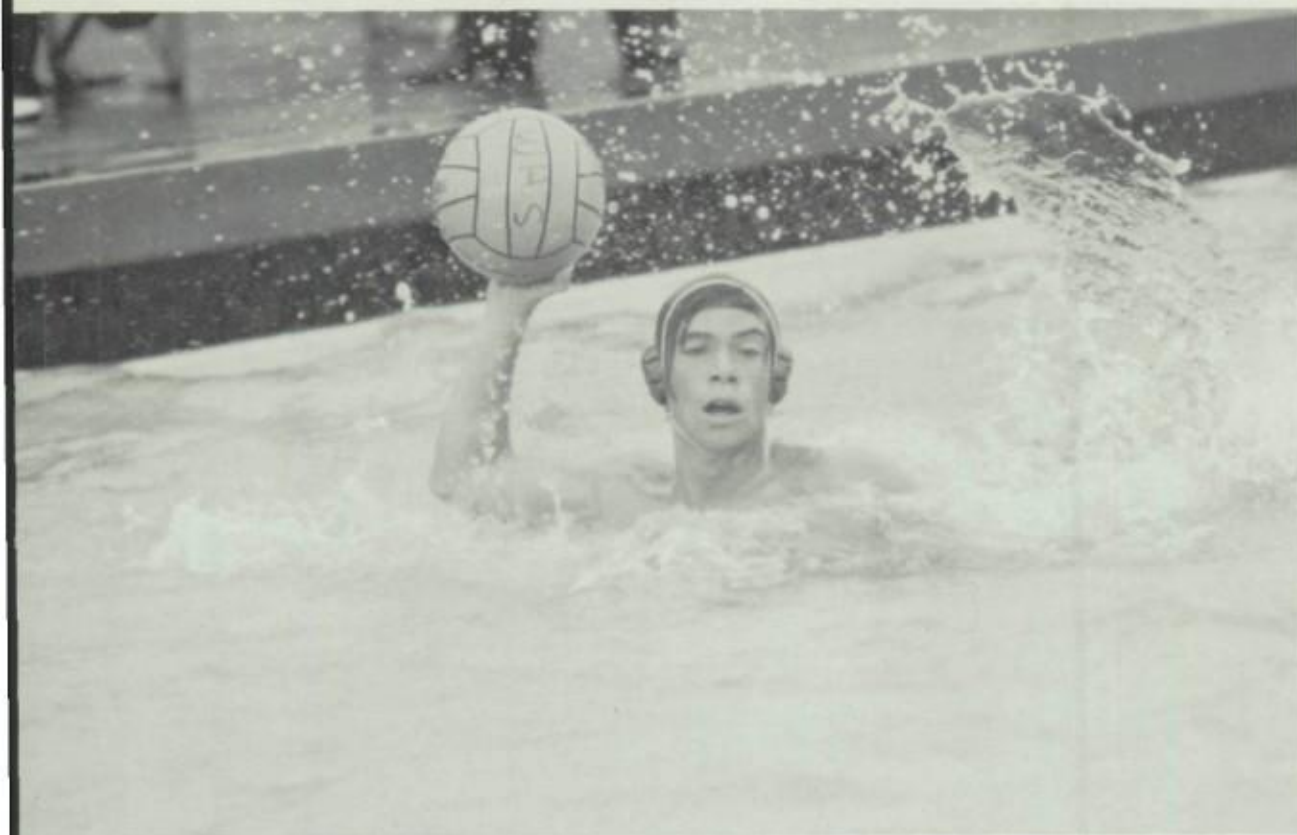

4. All Alone. Ken Green waits for an open player.

5. Over the top. Joe Miller passes the ball over a defender.

6. Blocked. James Odasso blocks the pass of the opposition.

7. Submerged. Mike Odasse hides the ball from the defenders.

8. With great effort. Ken Green passes the ball off.

Tennis, a Racket that Never Quits

The tennis team had a slow start, but kept their spirits high throughout the competition. They proceeded to work hard. Sherry Baie a former W.H.S. teacher says that "the team exceeded their playing capability." Terri Ryder, a W.H.S. senior stated that even though teams didn't finish on top it has been a season of growth, and next year problems will be worked out and corrected. It was said that Miss Baie has great knowledge of the sport and is very supportive to the team. In years to come teams will progress and obtain high goals.

1. Holding firm. Kim McGrew shoots for a lob.

2. Twisting sharply. Michele Yazzie prepares for an overhead.

Varsity Scores Again

Lions soccer had a great season with seven wins and four losses. Junior varsity tried hard with four wins and six losses. The Sophomore team also suffered a losing season with five wins and six losses.

The best games played were the victories over Ocean View and Fountain Valley. One of the more commemorative players was Jackie Mendez along with the goalie Kathy McFarlin and Dana Haskin. The coach Nate Matza firmly believes that, "This is one of the best years I've seen," and by giving one hundred percent the Lions proved this to their coach.

1. Why did you do that? Coach Matza watches over his team as he hopes for a victory.

Wrestlers Pin 'Em Again

Under the coaching of Bob Cossarek, the J.V. wrestling team started off a good season. With talented wrestlers such as: Roy Afusia, Bobbie Charon, Tafa Afusia, and Dave Tabone. The team had many hard practices followed by good results. The boys participating showed great dedication and sportsmanship. Even though many of the talented wrestlers will be moving up to Varsity wrestling next year the sophomore and freshman teams have enough strong players to fill the shoes of the Junior Varsity Team.

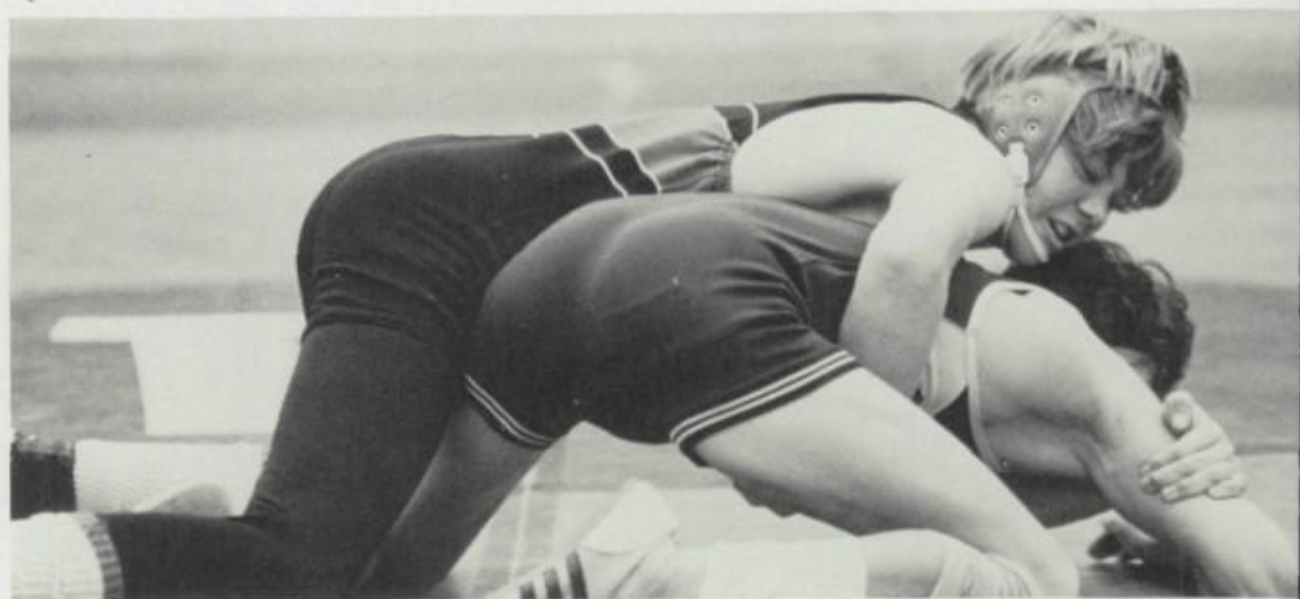

Alfred Tananau stated, "They did really good this year."

Coach Bob Cossarek showed a great amount of pride, as did his wrestlers during this season.

1. The Agony of Defeat — A Viking is taken down by Lion Ken Murphy.

Varsity Soccer Shoots for their Goal

Boys Varsity Soccer gave this year its best shot. Throughout the season they played many hard games. One of these, the toughest, was against Edison, ending in a tie. The team had many strong seniors such as Ed Sanchez, Roy Avalos and T.D. Kelly. Other strong players were Richard Lopez and Antonio Verte. We asked senior player Ed Sanchez what he thought of this team, and he said, "We had a lot of talented players this year and a great amount of teamwork and team spirit."

All of the players did their best and gave it their all. We can safely say the Varsity Soccer team Took the Reign.

1. Pain! Mike Vella heads the ball.
2. Varsity Soccer Team — Top row — Scott Hampton, Paul Vandermos, Dave Mee, Mike Vela, Mike Heins, Rob Lindquist, Mario Flores, Jack Bayless, Roy Avalos, Coach: Dan Berg. Front row — Ray Berg, John Verlinden, Antonio Vertt, Tony Ruiz, Henry Deguzman, Jeff Shard, Eddie Sanchez, Kirk Angenett, Che Mach.
3. Going for the shot. Mike Vella aims for the goal.
4. Passing the ball, Dave Tabone helps score a goal.
5. Dribbling the ball down the field is Ed Sanchez.
6. A fight to the finish. Roy Avalos snatches the ball from Edison.
7. Tossing from the side line, Dave Tabone plays a good game.

Surf Club Goes All League

After coming off a first place ranking in the South Coast League, the surfteam opened up its Sunset League competition with a win over Oceanview, the first Sunset League victory in the history of W.H.S. surfing. Much of the teams success is due to the new team program made up by coach Wilmore. Before and after school practices are mandatory for team members. The once awesome varsity squad was formed into a luxurious self-governed club and quickly established itself as a member of a newly forming league.

Not to be overlooked are the players themselves. Chris Gallup has yet to place below first in a competition, however, the success of the team is not predicted by one person. Other seniors like David Holleman and Russ Reese surfed very well, and will be strong contenders in this years all-star contest.

Also along the road are some hot freshman and sophomores like Ed Shane and Chris Meyers.

1. Yippee. Henry Deguzman jumps into the arms of Tony Verti with the thrill of victory.
2. What a life. Roy Avalos takes it easy as Ed Sanchez looks on.
3. I've got it. Tony Verti looks up the field.
4. Watching the ball. Ed Sanchez dribbles up the field.
5. Top row — Richie Cunningham, Don Allison, Wayne Cougham, Guy Thompson, Brian Manson, Greg Skropoda, Captain — Destructo, Lancealot Link Atlas Jr., Chris Meyers, Chris Rodrego, Chris Rawsley, Robert Clauson. Middle row — Steve Champion, Captain and President Chris Jaques Pierre Gallup, Maxamus the Third, Roy Avalos, Tim Norton, Jerry Bailey, Rick Guiterrez, Jim Punk, Sergeant Brutus, David Tabone, John Milkerson, Darren Alison, Roy Mease, Farrah Faucet, Bo Derek, Carolyn Gomard. Front row. — Treasurer Ozzy Osborne, Russ Wiames Reese, Rick Liebel.
6. Cutting Back. Chris Gallop cuts back after a two second tube.
7. Falling Back. With great talent Russ Reese falls back off the wave.

Field Hockey Reaches the Goal

The Lion field hockey team, led by co-captains Joy Lackey and Donna Manes, got off to a good start by finishing the first round of league play in a tie for 3rd place.

Terry Gentile, Pam Gomez, Joy Lackey, Donna Manes, Sheryl Poper, were the only returning varsity players.

With competition in all of the first round games being very close, the Lions with time and practice may well be competing in the CIF play-offs.

1. It's Not Yours For Long. Christy Brenton tries to run in for a quick steal.

2. Varsity Field Hockey — Top Row — Elizabeth Bredlow, Jena Scahlman, Christy Brenton, Joy Lackey, Sarah Pearce, Pam Gomez, Miss Eseman. Front Row — Cheryl Poper, Donna Sibley, Donna Manes, Trisha Hanze, Michelle Delgado, Terrey Sentile.

3. Where Did The Ball Go? Christy Brenton gets ready to hit the ball to a fellow teammate.

4. Get That Ball! Christy Brenton and a member of the opposite team fight for possession of the ball.

5. That was a Hard Game. The hockey team rests after a big game.

6. I've Got It! Donna Sibley tries to get the ball down to the opponent's goal to score.

A Rebuilding Year For Varsity Basketball Team

It was a rebuilding year for the Varsity Basketball Team. Youth and inexperience were the major stumbling blocks for the lions. Two sophomores and one junior started most of the games, giving us one of the youngest teams in the CIF. The experience these young players received should make them very good next year.

After thirteen games, the Lion record was 2 wins and 11 losses. (Pre-season 2-9, league 0-2) The leading scorers were both sophomores, Tom Downs and Jeff Eastin. Jeff was also the leading rebounder. The team demonstrated their ability to work hard and keep trying even when the odds were against them. Coach Borchert said, "Those qualities will be of great benefit to those young men as they begin their careers after high school." The motto of the team was, "You only lose when you quit trying."

J.V. Basketball Scores Again

The boys Junior Varsity team had a pretty exciting year. They strived hard and worked on Saturdays to improve on their skills and their capabilities. Having games on Tuesdays and Thursdays they practiced long and hard the rest of the time. They had many strong players such as: Al Kahn, Richard Brown, and Tim Coughlin. Under the coaching of Coach Pascoe, the team had a most promising year. They also had a great amount of spirit and pride.

Lions Have a Tough Season

The Lions' girls' basketball team did not play up to everyone's expectations. This past year the team suffered a lack of game experience, and it was pretty much a young team with only two seniors. With the loss of two key players, Diane Watson and Debbie Easton, The Lions couldn't seem to put it together. Watson was out with a knee injury and missed most of the season. Easton suffered a torn cartilage in the latter part of the season and was unable to return. Coach Dixon, who was in his first year of coaching a girls varsity team said, "It was a rough year."

1. Get Out There and Play Your Best. Larelle Hendon (JV coach) gives Kristin some instructions before she goes in.

Girls' Track Team Runs the Distance

The girls' track team had very few sprinters return from last season's team, but many distance runners did return. The girls' team was merged with the boys' team and both teams trained together under the direction of Coach George Pascoe. Sprinters returning from last year were Kim Sharp, Kristi Nutt, and Dawn Boeke. New additions to the team were Wendy Beneux, MixMisty Pflum, Serene Hagerty, Cassandra Shallah, Cathy Locke, and Eve Schneider. Running hurdles for the second year was Debbie Sterner. Returning for distance runners who included Laura McCracken, Pam Uhera, Lisa Bohl, Cathy Ponti, Hilda Corral, Bobbi Rubio, and Cathy Camiro. Joining the team for the first season are Mandy Whistler, Kathy Huddleston and Donna Bishop. Looking at all of the young talent the team, the upcoming seasons.

Girls' Gymnastics Team Competes with Flair

The popular sport of girls gymnastics again attracted many to the annual tryouts.

Although the team faced many difficulties this year, because a number of the team's members were out with injuries, the team pulled together to become true champions. This result occurred through the accomplishments and hard work of the coaches and team members themselves. The team owes a great deal to their coaches. The team showed its appreciation by working extremely hard and doing their best to improve its routines.

Not only was gymnastics fun and popular among students, but it also held many opportunities and learning experiences for its members. A majority of the girls on the team experienced the thrill of competition for the first time this year and learned the importance of team spirit and mutual support. The strength of the team this year was the close friendships developed among all of the girls. These strong friendships were the basis of the most self supportive teams Westminster gymnastics has seen.

The Shuttle Flies By

Badminton finally showed a growing interest as it drew a record crowd for try-outs. Many came for a hopeful position on the team. With 13 seniors to lead the team to another successful season. There were 29 people on the team, with only one freshman. The team was undefeated in pre-season.

With badminton growing in popularity it was also excepted and was no longer considered just a girls sport.

Like other sports they put many long hard hours in practice everyday and many practice hoping for a scholarship.

Swim Team Splashes to a New Season

There were a lot of changes in the swim team. The new coaches were Larry and Cathy Brennon and Joan Hurban. This was the largest swim team we have had in a long time. It consisted of fifty boys and girls. On the boys Varsity team we had five strong leaders: Mike Wilson, Craig Hayden, Joe Schuck, Philip Burke, and Eric Van Alst. Some of the J.V. hopefuls were Scott Pomrehn and Paul Vandermost. For the girls J.V. team we had the Miyada sisters, Cindy and Pam, Cindy Yakura, and Beth Servais. With hard work and fun this was just the beginning of a strong aquatic program.

1. Heading for the cliffs in Acapulco. Doug Wroughton exhibits fine form in a difficult dive.

Girls' Swim Team Practices Endurance

The Lion's Girls' Swim Teams opened the season with great expectations. The morning workouts and after school practices built up the endurance and stamina of the swimmers. Some of the outstanding swimmers on the Varsity girls level were Sharon Van Sorn, Joanne Schwartz and Gloria Cambell. Under the coaching of Joan Hurbane, the girls had a memorable season. The hard and long hours spent made this girls team something that can set an example for future Lion teams.

1. 50 Laps? Looking down (way down) at the other end of the pool, Joe Schuck contemplates whether he wants to begin his laps.

2. Splash! With a dive like that Patty Berg made a big hit with the judges to help the Lions win this event.

3. Hi Mom! Swimming's not all hard work. Some time for some fun and games is allowed as shown by Craig Hayden.

Softball Teams Plays in Bucking- ham Park

The Softball team looked very promising. They began the season early with try-outs lasting almost three weeks. The outlook of the team was good. For the first week the girls were finishing their other sports like Field Hockey, Soccer, and Basketball. After they got their season going, Varsity won their first three games. This is the first year that the girls' softball team had their own home field. Most of the girls felt that Buckingham Park helped their overall standings for the year.

With the extra additions of the girls' speed and pitching ability, the team did very well.

The J.V. and Varsity teams, coached by Coach Penny Smith, were strong at all positions and all skills. The Lion's softball teams showed aggressiveness and the urge to win during all the games and practices.

Baseball Team Eager to Equal the Champions of Last Year

The baseball season was full of inexperienced but hard working players. Led by Coach Hayes and his two assistants, Bob Owen and Bob VonEps, the team demonstrated fantastic skills, all open minded and tried hard.

Coach Hayes did an outstanding job training his 20 men roster, of which 14 of them were new comers. This was the first time the team accepted 4 sophomores: Eddie Pimentel, Dave Wiley, Tim Hansen, and Marty Rodriuez, who all showed great ability.

Junior new comers were Bobby Goode, Tom Nicolai, Ron Harriman, Steve Betz, Rick Gutierrez, and Tim Butler. Ruben Maciel, Dan Weatrowski, Ron Mowery, and Jerry Bailey were the 4 senior new comers.

Five senior returnees from last season's C.I.F. championship team were: Gerardo Llamas, Steve Osborne, Edwin Mitchel, Lance Aoki, and Danny Wong. Gerardo, being the only return starter shared the responsibilities of team captain with Danny Wong and Edwin Mitchell.

The possibilities for a repeat of last season depended on strong fundamentals. Hayes said, "It all depends on how the guys react against pressure because of the teams inexperience". Pitching and defense were the keys to the LIONS' season.

Baseball Bats Ahead

The J.V. and Soph. Frosh baseball teams had some outstanding athletes.

The guys put forth great effort into their games and it reflected in the outcome.

They had an excellent infield as well as outfield.

Although spirits may have been damped by rain early in the season, the team was very eager to show its pride by excelling thereafter.

1. That's the way it's got to be! Although the player seems to be disagreeable, the coach sets down the law.
2. Bazooka. Danny Wong attempts to make a bubble with a baseball players favorite pal, Bubble Gum!

Boys' Track Runs Against all Odds

In the early part of the season the track team took first place in the Santa Ana relays in the two mile relay. The relay team consisted of Mark Dalrymple, Kyle Morton, Steve Ramsey, and David Kontoes. These young people huffed and puffed their way to the finish line beating at least eight different schools.

Other outstanding runners were: for distance — Eddie Garcia and Eric Berg; and sprinters — Jack Trani, Allen Riggins, and Mark Wood. Ron Wood, WHS's trainer commented that long-distance runners keep running until they die and then get up and run some more. Head coach, George Pascoe, believes that work was what it would take and as long as the team stayed motivated they would go places.

Tennis Teams Backhand Their Opponents

The tennis team was a young team led by a new head coach. It was a learning experience for the whole team. There were four returning players, Ray Gonzalez, Eddie Horn, Perry Engel, and Robert Uershara. Though young, the team had a fairly good season. Under the new leadership of the first year coach, Quan Nguyen, the team learned many new things. Although the team faced strong competition in League, it played well together and had fun.

Golf Team Up To Par

The 1982 golf team is on the move. A junior team led by Jeff Amparano, a 1981 Sunset League finalist, was a 1982 championship contender. Golf is an individual sport that receives little publicity, but a team WHS can be proud of. Though in the past the golf team has been ridiculed, they improved vastly and were respected by all of their opponents. Last year Mr. Boswell was quoted as saying that the 1981 season was a rebuilding season but this past season the golf team had a remarkable year, with the new coaching of Mr. Hedges.

Volleyball Sparks Success

Starting the season with a huge turnout for tryouts, volleyball proved to have a successful season. After the team was selected, the true talent came shining through. Tough players such as Alfred Tauanunu, Stan Shrewsbury, and Carl Swamstrom, along with other dedicated members, really put forth a great effort to make this a fantastic year. Boys' volleyball steadily progressed in skill and teamwork throughout the season, making it difficult to distinguish between J.V. and Varsity.

All players contributed their share of leadership and ability to the team. Each player was extremely versatile in positions, whether it was defense, blocking, spiking, or setting.

Their coach, Rick Obal, was a former WHS volleyball player and was proud to be head coach for the team.

Give a Little Get a Lot

Senior class has accomplished much. Spirited, outgoing, and continually involved in campus life, our seniors participated in all activities and gave their utmost in academics as well as social school functions.

For some seniors it was a long twelve years, but for most, it was well worth it. As seniors, many learned, through painful experiences, that reality is totally different from fantasies. Many hours were sacrificed from social life and study time for the answers about life that were found. Nothing was free for the seniors.

Different seniors placed emphasis on the different things in school. Many of the more studious people wanted nothing more than a good grade, while the active group felt that they should be involved in the social life of the senior class. A third group strived for that happy medium — an effective combination of activities and academics.

There's More To Her Than Just a Lion's Suit

Mascot Helen Miller showered the school with spirit, showing how really exhilarating school spirit can be. But there was much more to Helen than just her lion suit. Helen had a job that was as important to her as being mascot. She worked as a salesperson at SEARS, inc. local mall. Even while her happy-go-lucky attitude really showed.

She also was Vice-president of the Senior Class. She had been involved in school activities since her freshman year.

Helen enjoyed spending time with her friends, going out to dinner, and going on week-end camping trips to O'Neal Park. Helen also enjoyed spending time painting. She has done many paintings. She even got an entrance in the Leguna Beach Art Museum Exhibit.

"My job has given me a lot of respect and a good chance to meet a lot of people. It is an absolute blast, but certainly a lot of work."

1. Beaming Faces. Making people smile was Helen Miller's prime job. She received many a smile for her performances.

Darren Smith Leads Drums to Victory

Being section leader for the drums line was no picnic. Darren Smith could tell you that. The drum section in the past was the "goof off section of the band." Darren Smith and a new drum instructor changed the image of the section making them the top competitor in Southern California. In 1981, out of six drum competitions, the drum line won first place at each one.

One of the reasons for the great success was the emphasis Darren and the instructor put on rehearsal. All of the drummer's energy was put into playing during rehearsal as well as performance.

Drumming was an important thing to Darren. "This experience in high school will improve my drumming so I can go to a drum and bugle corps." Darren also said that his drum set practicing may help him to be a studio drummer.

"Winning really makes you feel good — it makes it all worthwhile," Darren adds. "You know, while you're practicing, you sometimes feel like, 'Forget this!', but it all pays off when you get first place."

Seniors Reflect Upon Summer Vacations

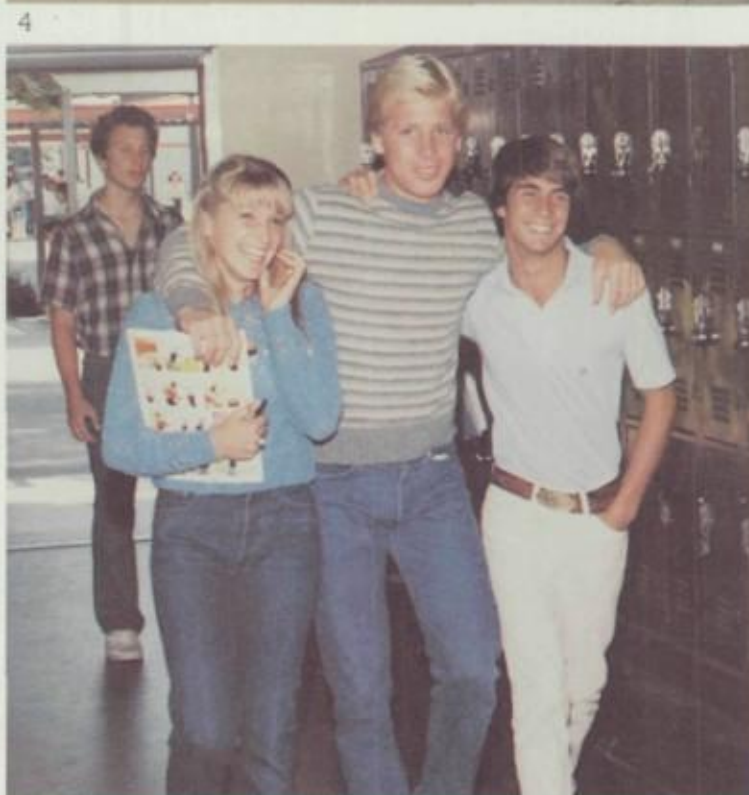

Seniors come back to school from a warm fun-filled, and exciting summer. Summer vacations were mainly spent at the beach, working, and just hanging out with friends. After asking some seniors on campus about their vacation, we received these replies:

Kelly Haas — Spent time with friends, went to the beach, and went to parties.

Ginger Cummings — Went to the beach, spent a lot of time with friends and boyfriend Bill.

Cody Johnson — Worked part of the time, fixed my Ford Falcon, saw 1941 forty-one times, and had fun with my friends and my fiancée Rita.

Scott Engeldal — Worked full-time and during time off went back packing, the beach and Mexico.

Laurie Clarkson Takes Lead in Pageantry

Laurie was one of the most active girls on campus. She was the captain of the pageantry corps, which played a major role in her life. When asked about pageantry she said, "I have been in pageantry for the past two years. I have enjoyed it very much. I think this year's corps is a lot better than last year." She was also a homecoming princess and commented, "It was a great honor being nominated."

Laurie also loves collecting Snoopy miscellany in her spare time, at least when she gets time. She says, "My room is a Snoopy museum."

When inquiring about school she showed mixed expressions. She likes school because of friends and pageantry, and rewarding education, what she doesn't like is getting up early in the mornings. After graduating from here she plans on going to G.W.U. and taking courses to become a pre-schoolteacher for she enjoys being with children.

1. Why Me? Looking up in disgust, Laurie Clarkson seems to want a shower after being smeared by her escort during homecoming week.

2. What a Picture, Posing for the camera is homecoming princess Laurie Clarkson.

Rick Sesulka Drum Major and Scholar

Rick while holding a 3.5 grade average and being nominated to the Royal Banquet was also drum major in his senior year. He placed third out of ten in the drum majors in the Founders Day Parade. Rick was in band throughout high school. He says "being drum major has its ups and downs, but he enjoys the power that goes with it." Not only is he drum major but he is also extremely talented with musical instruments. Rick plays the saxophone, clarinet, French horn, keyboard, and the baritone.

After graduating Rick plans to attend R.O.T.C., then to join the Air Force and be in the Air Force Band and in air reconnaissance. In his spare time Rick enjoys roller skating, and spending time with a close group of friends, the "DUKE'S."

Edwin Mitchell Dedi-²cated Himself to His Teams

Edwin Mitchell has been playing baseball since the age of eight, and has participated in football every year since the fifth grade. Edwin has played for four years here and has practiced on the average four hours a day, six days a week. Ed has played on the varsity football team for two years. His position was that of cornerback, but has also played quarterback. He played on the varsity CIF winning baseball team in 1981 and is playing again this year.

Edwin stated that the coaching staff has really improved over last year. "The coaching staff," commented Edwin, "is more understanding this year, but this year's team's overall discipline has improved."

Upon graduating he plans to attend U.C.L.A. and take computer programming. Edwin remarked that the teaching staff has helped him a lot, particularly the English department.

1. And the Kick is Good! Edwin Mitchell looks on as his teammates add one more point to the scoreboard with a field goal. The Lions went on to win the game against Huntington Beach with a score of 14-0.

More Than Just A 4.0

Joe Meilac was no "average" 4.0 student. Joe, in addition to maintaining a spectacular 4.0 average, was chemistry student of the year for 1981. In addition, he was a member of CSF since his freshman year.

Joe still found time to work as a paid aide in the attendance office. In his spare time Joe enjoyed collecting L.P.'s and working with electronics.

Joe plans on attending U.C. Irvine, where he will major in computer science. His future goals are to work for N.A.S.A. or any scientific field.

Joe was not involved in as many activities or clubs as he may have liked to have been; however, he said, "I know I was not as involved as other students were and I have no regrets about that. Being well known is not as important as being known well." Joe also said, "It is thanks to the support and encouragement of family and friends that I have been successful in school. I couldn't have done it without them."

1. More Than Grades, Not only is Joe Meilac a valedictorian, he also works in the office as a clerical aide.

2. Rah! Rah! Cheering at pre-game are varsity flag leaders Christy Zimmerman, Jackie Martinez, and Michelle King. Pre-game seems to be an effective spirit booster.

And The Band Plays On

Life was not always as easy as it looked. Band took a lot of work — Many man hours into each bit of performance. Of course, all that work was for a cause. A feeling of satisfaction when a show comes together and captivates the audience. The crowds, the applause, and rewards were the payoffs.

A typical week in band began with fourth period on Monday. Freshman and sophomore BAND members worked with Mr. Woesner on halftime show music during this period: Fifth period, the juniors and seniors worked with the band director. During sixth period, both band groups went out to the stadium and practiced the competition show, instructed by Jim Stevenson, a 1979 graduate of Westminster. On Tuesday night the band hosted their own halftime competition. Several high school bands competed. Our bands put on an exhibition at the end. In addition to the regular two periods, band practiced on Thursday the band would have a night rehearsal from five to seven. Friday was usually the day for a pep rally. The advanced players in fifth period would get out of class and perform in the gym for the many rallies. "Salsoul Hustle," "Make Me Smile," "Rip 'em Off," were among the usual repertoire the students enjoyed.

Friday nights the entire band assembled to perform at the football games. Pre-game, halftime, and playing in the stands were all part of the football performances. Twice, Saturday night was the night for a competition. The band met in the late afternoon, on buses and went to another high school to perform their halftime show. There judges judged their performance. If the show was done well, the reward for all the hard work is to come away with a top award — a reward that makes the hard work every week pay off.

1. Oom Pa Pa, Taking the stand to begin one of the band's spirited arrangements during a pep rally is Paul Johnson. Often-times the band's music is used to begin pep rallies for the music tends to quiet the students.

2. Small But Not Unnoticed, Although flutes are among the smallest of the band's instruments, their sound adds life to many arrangements as demonstrated by Kim Yarborough and Susan Heis.

Final Year Comes for Class of 1982

Being a Senior means getting out of school and stepping into the working world. Leaving school has many regrets like losing contact with most of the friends and all that is left is memories. Some students express their feelings and most memorable experiences:

"Friday night football games with all the women."
Joseph Alexander

"A night with all the seniors and being with good friends."
Sandi Williams

"Week-ends with close friends. Sad times when it all comes to an end."
Alita Hopkins

"Week-ends were made for fun."
Buddy Collier

"Eating lunch with Linda, football games, and good times with Cody."

Take Another Look at Football

Football has many good things to contribute to society; but what is it teaching when a player is attacked by his teammates after a loss? Is this what the inventors of the game wanted? Football is a rough game; not a war, where people put their lives on the line. It is a game in which the players are taught to win and hit hard, but not to kill.

Most people would agree that a player should not be ridiculed by his family because of a loss, yet there are those that would disagree. For example, a player was walking off the field after a tough loss when a relative walked up to him, the player expecting some consolation, yet all he got was ridicule and obscenities.

How can these problems be solved? We must make players realize how lucky they are to play the game of football and how it's the competition that counts, not the hurting of others. Of course winning is important too, but what is most important is having participated and knowing that one have done one's best.

Definitely A Year to Remember

A major cause of excitement throughout the year was the amount of time each student spent to excel in his special field. The band members practiced many hours each week and spent many Saturdays marching in parades. Furthermore, the other parts of the music department, such as the orchestra and vocal groups, practiced just as hard as the band, making the entire department the best ever. Many students also devoted their time to sports, while others found time to study. The attendance at the football games was terrific; the homecoming game was the most popular with a beautiful court and the crowning of Queen Jackie Martinez. Because each student got involved in one way or another, it became a year to remember.

Autos Take a Turn

Increasing enrollment in Automobiles classes is proof of the large student interest for rehabilitating cars around campus. Fixing up clunkers proved not only to be exciting and educational, but also economical. Students saved money by installing their own parts and in the process upgraded the performance of their cars. A V-8 engine complete with headers, mags, fog lights, and stereo were a must for a HOT automobile.

The Popcorn Man, Paul Pearce, Retires

Around school Paul is known for making the popcorn and running other various machines such as the cotton candy machine. "I have been hanging around this place for five years and enjoying it," he explained. He has also been going to football games and working in the concession stands. He went on to say, "My last year has been devoted to getting involved in TEPS, Interact, sign language, and of course popping the best popcorn that has ever been popped!"

Paul said, "College is for me." And he went on to explain how he is striving to keep an excellent academic record. Paul then plans to have a Naval Career as an officer and then to go on to be a corporation executive or hold a political office. Most important of all, he intends to be a family man.

The most memorable moments he had here are: the teachers' strike, losing to Marina, and going to the luau. He also enjoyed the power failure parties, friends and foes, but most of all growing up.

Being of Royalty is Not All Fun and Games

A Victorian Affair started Wednesday morning at 4:00 a.m. when the court and their escorts were kidnapped by the House of Lords and dressed up in costumes. That day the court had to run an obstacle course. The winners of the race were all five girls. Another day a pie throwing contest was held for each girl. Students bought a pie and threw it at the girl they bought it for.

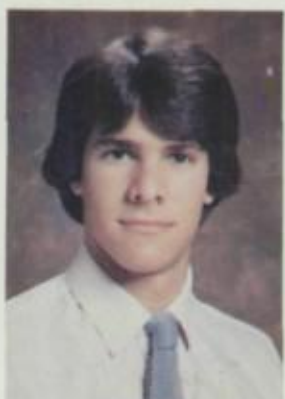

The event most students waited for during Homecoming week was the day the five beautiful candidates, Laura Kurata, Laurie Clarkson, Christy Zimmerman, Shelley Segars and Jackie Martinez, were creamed by their escorts. The escorts received tomato paste, honey, flour, peanut butter, glitter, eggs, etc. . . . to pile on the girls and mix up. After this was done the girls looked even more gorgeous than before.

The girls were real sports about the MESS they were in although they knew it was just the beginning.

Seniors Dash Into 1982

Four years came and went. These years cannot be replaced. For some they were a memory imprinted in gold, but for most they were minutes spent in joy and success, tears and failure.

The senior year was perhaps the best of all for these students. It began with the traditional festive events, the senior Luau. The seniors found the evening an appropriate way to start the year . . . surrounded by friends, enjoying delicious Polynesian entertainment.

Officers who served for the class of 1982 are Andy Arajo, Senior president; Helen Miller, Vice president; Celest Rodregues, Secretary.

Seniors viewed this as the best year all because it meant the completion of their preparation for either college, university, or full time employment. They eagerly looked to what the future had in store even though it meant leaving friends and classmates and going their separate ways.

The Crowds Compete in the Ten "K" Run

It was seven o'clock; first there was one lone man, then another joined him and then they were pouring in in great numbers. By nine o'clock there were over two-hundred people. They were all here for the ten kilometer run. Many ran hoping to bring another prize home, others for their health and fun.

Westminster High School organized the race for the first time ever and it went without a flaw. What took weeks to set up was over in 45 minutes, but for some it is a lifetime memory.

High School Traditions — Fluff or Necessity?

Homecoming, the Peasant's Prom, the Christmas Formal, and getting smeared by Edison are just a few of Westminster High School's traditions.

A question emerges. Are extracurricular activities a help or hinderance to students — fluff or necessity?

Customs may be beneficial in that they give some students a reason to come to school. Some people would not come to school if a certain social life was not provided. Conventions also add to certain excitement which makes school a little more bearable. Excitement builds up during Homecoming week, bursting as the game is played and the queen is announced.

On the other hand, nights filled with "T.P.-ing" football players' houses, baking cookies, and attending meetings may distract from the learning experience. Students may get so caught up in school activities that they forget to study; and work for good grades.

Hopefully, a happy medium is possible. A student may be able to involve herself in enough activities to be happy, well-rounded person and still allow himself time to follow through on academic commitments.

Seniors Plan Ahead

The high school career for the class of 1982 was coming to an end when we asked several people to give an outlook on their future. Some were scared, confused, and undecided. Others were sure of their path in the near future. Here are selected quotes from the lucky few with confidence in their futures:

"I plan on furthering my education at a well acclaimed university so that I may become a psychiatrist."

Donna Davidson

"Once I graduate I plan to attend Goldenwest College for Cosmetology. After I have acquired my license I hope to get married and have a family. Someday, I plan to own my own beauty shop."

Staci Bradford

"After completion of high school, I plan on going two years at a J.C. and then two years at U.S.C., majoring in engineering."

Lee Brooks

"After I graduate from high school, I am planning on going to Goldenwest College. I will study computer programming, and then transfer to Long Beach State, also studying computers and electronics."

Joseph Beaman

"After high school I plan to be involved in a drum and bugle corps during the summer. I will be going to Fullerton College in the fall semester or next year, hopefully majoring in physics."

Dave Bertelson

A Time Of Repulsive Fashion

Once upon a time, clothes used to be comfy, relaxing and pleasant to look at. Shopping for clothes was enjoyable and not too difficult either. Then, along came the eighties, much like a nightmare and changed the fashion world into a three-ring circus.

It used to be the fad to wear colors that matched, or at least went well together. Today, it would seem that the idea is to look as gaudy and contrasting as possible. Psychedelic pinks, purples, turquoises, colors that haven't been named yet, are on the rampage. I have failed to mention that some the patterns on the material usually look like the test patterns on a TV or skin from a wild animal.

One of the latest fads I despise the most is the headband look. The whole school has turned Indian. I believe a fashion designer saw Chris Everett's sweat band and decided it looked "hip."

The Western look, although it is on its way out, is the most hypocritical of them all. The majority of the little girls who are dressed Western have never left the city let alone ridden a horse.

Going shopping and trying to find the old faithfuls, like corduroys and sweaters, is a pastime that has become as difficult as looking for an endangered species.

The fashion world is a game of "Let's Pretend." I say, let's just pretend it never happened and get back to some respectable clothing.

Gossip Provides a Favorite Pastime

Mr. Bell took care of the most essential tool of this century. This indispensable little gadget was the telephone. It was used to discuss upcoming school activities.

Freshmen, the babies of the high school, used the phone more than juniors and seniors because they didn't have a driver's license or the use of the family car. However, all students found the voice box a very useful instrument when homework assignments and answers needed clarification. Gossip was a vital necessity in the everyday life of most students, and the telephone was a great way to spread it. Favorite telephone topics included romances, punishments, and illnesses (particularly mononucleosis).

Most students were not lucky enough to have private lines, but those students with the privilege often spent hours on the phone. Those students without private phones, who didn't want to use their parent's line, often used local pay phones. These phones, though, often proved to be more of a hassle than they were worth because of location, cost and unavailability.

All teenagers owe a great deal to Alexander Graham Bell for his invention. The telephone has drastically changed America's lifestyle because now the answers to all kinds of questions are at our fingertips. There is no longer any need to walk a mile to speak with a friend; in fact, homework answers, dates and chatter are all available with the ring of a bell.

1. The Meeting Place, Students often have "their" place where lunch is eaten and events are discussed. This seems to be "the place" for these girls.

2. Hail Westminster! At the close of a successful pep rally Tom Yin and Darren Smith beat away at the alma mater.

Year Classes Educate More

The basic classes like reading, math and history last for a full year. The main reason is because that they are a basic class. They last for a year because it is impossible to teach everything about a certain math level like geometry or a certain history subject like U.S. History in only one semester. For example, if someone took U.S. History for one semester it would be really difficult to learn all about the U.S.'s history. Since it is for a year you can learn more about U.S.'s history and go more into depth.

Here are some comments from students about the year long class they enjoyed most:

"I really enjoyed Theater 2 because I got to know the other students that much better and I also became very good friends with the teacher. She was able to teach us much better over that time."

Matt Mitchell

"I liked Latin I the most. Mrs. Dorman, the teacher, was real nice and taught well and I made friends with some real nice people that I sat near and I learned a lot about ancient Rome instead of just the language."

Sandi Silva

"I liked Spanish I with Mrs. Swenson. She keeps the class rolling in the aisles. I not only learned some of the language, but also learned about the culture and people of the Spanish speaking countries. I feel it was time very well spent."

School, To Go Or Not To Go

"School is important." "Your whole future is ahead of you." "You have to finish high school." "Take advantage of your high school education." These quotations were familiar to some students. These students were given the opportunity to give their comments on school:

"I don't like school, but once I'm done, I'll miss it."
Jim Marcen

"I don't like school because it forces me to think."
Bret Henning

"I like school most of the time because I like to visit with my friends, besides, home is boring. P.S. I don't like the homework."

School Spirit on the Rise

School spirit is one of the most important elements that a school can have. Some said that school spirit had gone down somewhat in the past two years; although, with the help of the class of '85, school spirit has risen.

Pep rallies have shown some improvement. There was much participation from all of the classes, and it made the pep rallies exciting and fun.

The turnout at football games was yet another way students showed their support. At all of the home games, away games, and especially at homecoming, there was a big turnout. It was really great to see so many people involved in our football games, especially people that have already graduated and have come back.

Yes, school spirit is important, and it is even better when it is on the rise.

1. A mass of enthusiasm. Students at a pep rally watch as the cheerleaders perform in the gym.

2. Showing Spirit. Pete Worth expresses his spirit for his school.

House of Lords Reigns in Ye Olde Campus Shoppe

In order to provide students with the opportunity to buy school supplies at a reduced rate, the House of Lords created the Student Store. The store started as an idea, was voted on, and became a reality with Michelle Langus as the manager.

House of Lords worked and maintained the store. It functioned just as a normal store. It had two shifts: before school and during lunch time. Lunch time was also a time for restocking and re-ordering goods.

The money to run the store came from the Associated Student Body budget and all profits were put back into the store, the Associated Student Body budget, dances and proms.

Having a store on campus gave some members of House of Lords the opportunity to gain valuable experience in handling money, working a cash register, and other jobs performed in a store.

Iranians Outraged a Nation

On Sunday, November 4, 1979, students in the name of Iran's Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini invaded the American Embassy in Tehran. They overpowered its Marine Corps guards and took fifty-two Americans hostage. They demanded that the United States surrender their Shah, who was under treatment in Manhattan for cancer of the lymphatic system and other illnesses, as the price for the release of the American hostages.

Approximately six months later, President Jimmy Carter ordered a specially trained team of American military commandos to try to rescue the hostages from the heavily guarded United States embassy in Tehran. The rescue attempt failed, taking with it eight American military crewmen.

Through the four hundred forty-four days of captivity, Americans showed their concern for the hostages by wearing yellow ribbons and tying them around trees, ringing bells, flying the American flag, and driving with their headlights on during the day.

The hostages were released in January, greeted by cheering crowds, and reunited with their families. The long, difficult adjustment period had just begun.

Some people criticized the actions taken by our leaders at that time as shown in the following comments:

"I would have given the militants an ultimatum to release the hostages, and if this were not complied with, I would follow through with the necessary military action to insure their release."

"I would have made rescue attempts until they succeeded."

Fantasy Game Fills Leisure Time

by Kermit Marsh

A few years back, a new game arrived on the scene. It started small, but it gradually became the fastest growing game in the United States. The game is Dungeons and Dragons.

This is a game based on imagination. Situations are determined through odds with a system of polyhedra dice. The game is based on the principles of fantasy or swords and sorcery. Every player has his own character with its unique abilities, and unlike other games, the characters are determined by dice rolling, making each character unique with its own specific aptitude in strength, wisdom, intellect, dexterity, charisma, and physical constitution. With the knowledge of his aptitudes, a player then determines the race and class of his character. The term class refers to his profession such as a warrior, wizard, cleric, or a thief. Races include dwarves, elves, men, and halflings. Each race and class has its own advantages and restrictions. The game is supervised by a referee or dungeon master. Characters encounter monsters, find treasures, gain experience and increase in abilities, or get killed.

As to the people who play the game, there has been much recent speculation. When the game first came on the market, a strange crowd first took interest in it. These were mainly people who wanted to escape and withdraw from reality. However, in the last few years, ordinary people, most of them bright people who are looking for a game that challenges their intellect yet lacks monotony of chess, have begun to take an interest in Dungeons and Dragons.

Working After School

Most students on our campus held a part time job throughout the year. Being an after school job, it meant few hours, but met the financial needs of a high school student.

The most popular employers were McDonalds, Carls Jr., Jack in the Box, and Del Taco. Fast food restaurants seemed to employ over half of the students. The Westminster Mall seemed to employ the rest.

Whether it was a fast food job or any other kind of sales, these jobs gave students the responsibility of doing something for themselves. Being able to pay for one's own needs helped prepare them for a life ahead of being independent.

1. Where is the door? Westminster students try their hand at building a modular home in Buckingham square.

2. Ho hum! Susan Henri and Shelley Segars seem to be enjoying their lecture.

The Cube Captivates the Commoners

Around the campus, in quiet classrooms, all that could be heard was the sound of a Rubik's Cube that the students were trying to solve.

The Rubik's Cube was designed by Erno Rubik, a professor and architect in Budapest, Hungary. He designed the cube as an aid for his students to recognize three dimension space relationships. In addition to Professor Rubik, Terutoshi Ishigo, an engineer in Japan, also designed a cube. Both applied for patents in the 1970s. The cube became available in Europe in 1978. However, availability in the United States did not begin until 1980.

For most people this cube has remained a puzzle:

"I could go either way on the Rubik's Cube, but most of the time it frustrates me."

Freda Elder

"The cube frustrates me, but I still want to figure out how to do it."

Tim Shaw

"For me the cube is an obsession. Even though I can only complete two sides, I am determined to finish the cube no matter how long it takes."

Joe Beaman

But for others it has become a toy:

"To me this cube is like a puzzle because you don't know exactly how it's going to act. I can do it, but I like to play around with it to figure out different patterns."

Brian Kingsbury

"What is the Rubik's Cube? The cube is a complex personality, as are many young puzzles of a renaissance era."

Nelson Soler

"The cube is a masterstroke of mathematical precision and is the product of a warped mind."

Matt Mitchell

"I like the Rubik's Cube because it annoys my teachers and gives me something to do in class."

Are They Still the Class of the Year?

The class of 1983 returned for another energetic and productive year. For the past two years the class of 1983 has been chosen Class of the Year. Their goals was to be elected Class of the Year once again. To reach this goal, they competed in class competitions, decorated Buckingham Square for Homecoming, prepared a float for the Pep Parade, raised money for United Way, and helped with Child Abuse Week.

In addition to these activities, they also organized and put on the Junior-Senior Prom. In order to undertake this large financial responsibility, the juniors worked hard earning money by working football and basketball concessions, sockhops, and selling assorted items.

Through a lot of hard work, time, and preparations, these dedicated students have made it difficult for the other ranks to beat them in the Class of the Year competition.

2. "Let's have the Prom in Hawaii!" Sharing ideas about the Jr./Sr. Prom are the Junior class officers: Catherine Castaldi, Kim Sprouse, Chuck Parkey, Danny Sullivan, and advisor Mrs. Tanner.

3. Do you have any more ideas? Norah Vincent discusses plans for the Prom.

Computers Take Over

Computers have been around for a long time. They do many things, from tracking down people to monitoring finances, to playing a simple game.

Computer games played a large part in recreational activities. Hand held games of football, baseball, and simple logic were the most popular. Counterparts to the pocket games, television games and chess games were also found in homes across the nation.

Computers have made a big entrance into education at WHS. The school used computers for attendance, grading, counseling, and offered courses in computer science and business computers.

Computers play a large part in society today because they aid the police and medical professions and many others. In the near future, computers may run a large percentage of our lives!

Punk Rock Fades

Has Punk Rock faded? Some people would have said, "Yes," because there were not as many people in schools dressed in the punk style. Very little on the subject of punk has appeared in the newspapers or on television. Even street scenes of punkers were lacking. Students were approached on the subject and they had this to say:

"Yes, I feel punk rock is fading and I'm glad because I never liked it in the first place."

Jerry DeBucki

"Yes, well, maybe not. I didn't really pay much attention to it."

Kevin Schmal

"I knew it would fade in the first place. It's just like the style of clothes, in and out."

CROP is Experience

Coastline Regional Occupational Program (CROP) offered classes to high school students which gave them the opportunity to achieve academic credits and learn new skills. Over 50% of the CROP students were placed in paying jobs. Five new classes were added to the program. These included: Automotives, Alternative Energy, Drafting, and Landscaping.

Because CROP is a joint venture of five school districts, funding was provided by state and local taxes. Therefore, no tuition was charged. Students received one credit for fifteen hours of work, both on the job and in the classroom. Students obtained additional information on CROP from the Career Guidance Center.

Students involved in CROP voiced their opinions:

"It is good experience for a future career."

Sharon Acosta

"It helps to be placed in a paying job."

Jack VanderMolen

"It gave me a good reference for a job; now I can get one anytime."

The Amendment Controversy Continues

To have an Equal Rights Amendment, or not to have ERA — that was one of the continuing, burning questions that the nation, state and school considered. Several students commented on this controversial subject:

"I think the ERA is okay. But some people go too far with it. Girls should have the right to do what they want."
Robert Steidley

"I think the ERA has some good points for women, but it's not for me, when it comes to reality today."
Shell Yazzie

"I think that women are equal to men, and if they want to do work that is considered for men, let them try it and give it their best shot."
Gary Cooper

"I think men and women are almost equal. When it comes to certain things men and women aren't equal. But I think they should be both treated in the same kind of way."
Gary Wood

"I think all men and women are equal, but when it comes to a woman doing a man's job, I don't think they can do as good a job as a man because they don't have the physical ability."
Stacy Saldana

The Agony We Went Through

This is an essay written in memorium to the small group of people who struggled against all odds to put together this yearbook. Whereas it is true that no one actually died, it is also true that the inopportune problems that trapped these poor young men and women and their advisor in their school-time classroom, killed many an hour of would-be free time. The irony of the situation was that these students were only a hand full taken from a whole class. Because of false excuses and an uninspirational attitude taken by most of the yearbook "staff," this small group of dedicated workers had to work overtime (in some cases twelve hours a day) to complete their assignments on time. Come rain or shine or even snow, these young people worked hard to produce this yearbook.

1. Window washing? Don McCormick is really putting up letters on the marquee with the assistance of Stacey Marsh.

2. The model of the famous statue, the Thinker? This is actually Eddie Munez deep in thought by the cafeteria.

September Kicks Off A Busy Year

The beginning of school lent itself to confusion. The student body representatives tried to relieve these pressures by presenting many "back to school" activities. Sock hops and football games gave students a chance to socialize on Friday nights. Seniors were kept busy with the all important senior portraits. Freshman elections finished up the month, with the student body becoming acquainted with one another. Overall, September was a successful month and the beginning of a very productive and active year.

1. A pensive thought . . . Gerti Salinas tops for a moment to think about what her answer is going to be.

2. Stop the school, I want to get off! Some students seem to feel a little nauseous after eating their lunch.

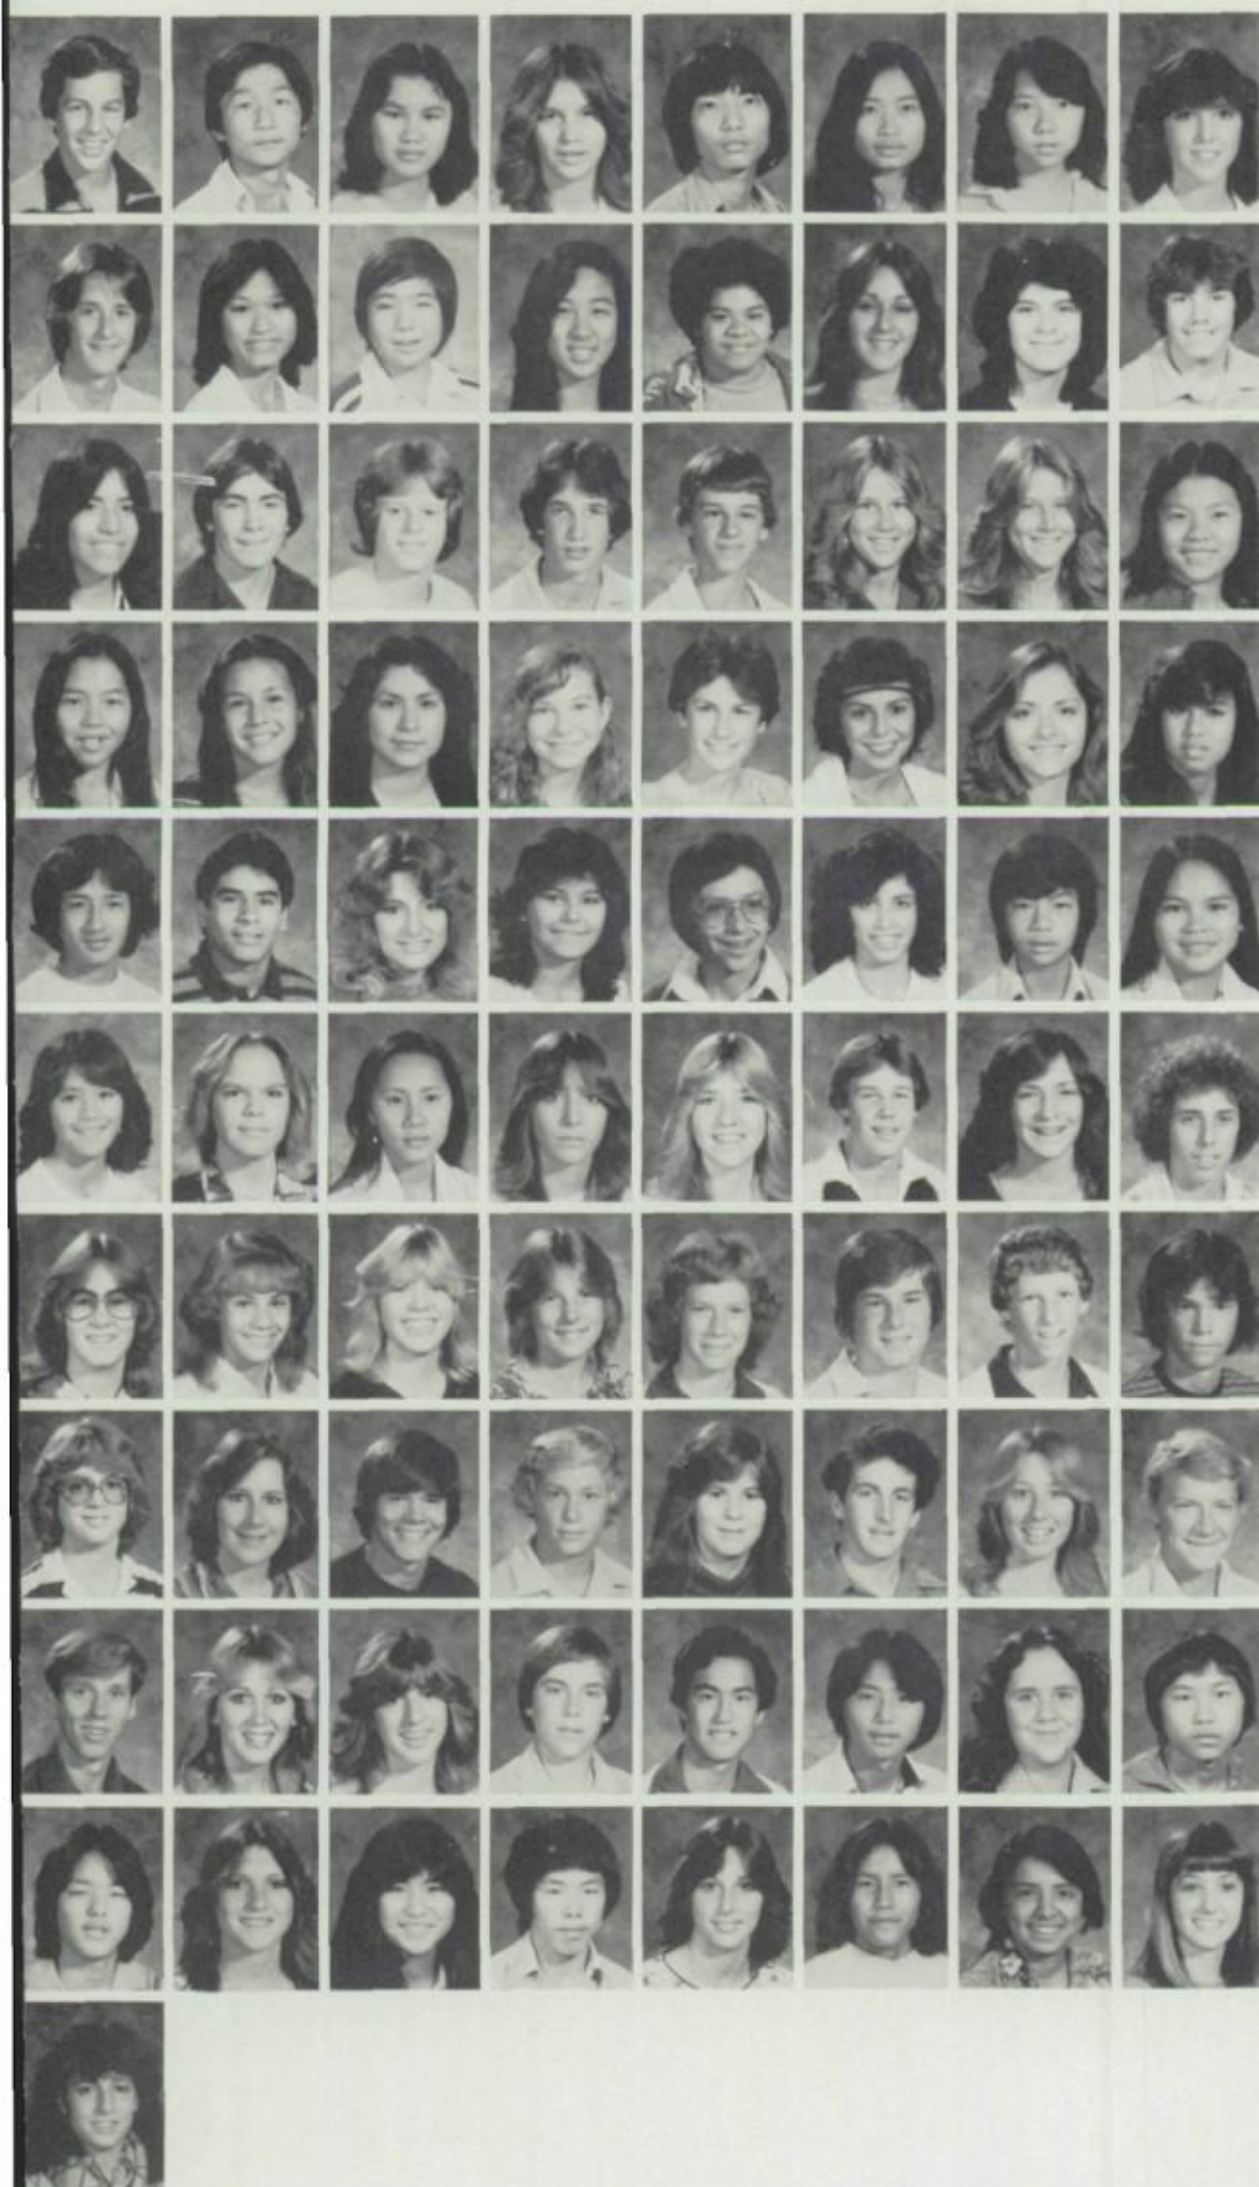

Sophomores Fight for a Worthwhile Goal

The Sophomores returned for a lively year. One of their main goals was to donate the most money to the United Way. To attain this goal, they sold various items, worked concessions and a sockhop, organized a car wash and planned a pizza night. Through a lot of hard work, time and preparations, the class of 84 won the United Way week with a total earning of $689.80, beating the Freshmen with $138.83, the Juniors with $384.88 and the Seniors with $381.55.

Uprising of Freshmen

by Dawn Schnell

In the past years the freshmen have been looked down upon as the ones to pick on. They were the subjects of many senior pranks. As a freshman and even as a sophomore, I had closely examined the insides of a few trash cans on campus. We even heard rumors of being initiated in our school pool, clothed even!

Any acts different from the "horn" were referred to as "typical of a freshmen." This year, however, the freshmen are on the uprise. They have shown a great abundance of energy, and a great interest in school activities. The freshmen frequently lead in class competitions, and freshman girls are now able to join the drill team.

Although there will always be an occasional inner trashcan observation, they have for the most part, come to a halt. Who knows, maybe in another ten years the seniors will be the ones introduced to some inner trashcan viewings, compliments of the freshmen class.

1. An artistic moment. Michele Hudson puts the finishing touches on her tiger.

2. Stumped! Greg Madsen thinks the answer might be found on the posters in Mrs. Swenson's Spanish class.

Ye Old Mess Hall Serves Gourmet Food

Campus food is a controversial issue. A lot of people dislike it, but no one has died from it. Some of the food must have been all right because the lunch lines were always so long.

"The food could be better, but it could be worse. If people want something extravagant, let them go off campus and get it."

Diana Van Newkirk

"Some of the food is okay like the apple pies and taco snacks."

Dan Weatrowski

"I've tasted much worse and the prices are too high."

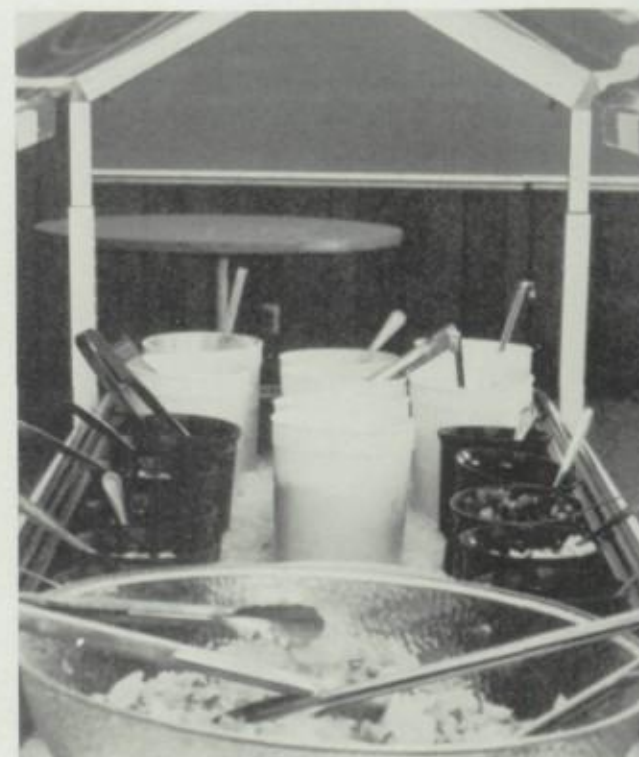

Derek Archer

"The food could be called scarf-n-barf because after it is scarfed you feel violently sick."

Cody Johnson

1. Salad bar — where at? Most students would probably enjoy having a salad bar in their cafeteria.

2. The highlight of my day. Students look forward to 11:45 when lunch starts and they can put some food in their belly.

Horror Movies Frighten Their Viewers

Horror movies have been around since the 1930's. They have come a long way since then. Hit movies in the 30s were Frankenstein, Dracula, The Weir-wolf, and many other classics.

These days movies were more intense and much more frightening. Many people that payed to see these movies liked to be scared and/or liked pain. Horror movies have played a big part in the movie making industry and are very profitable.

The movies that have played in 1981 were: Friday the 13th Part 2, The Howling, Halloween Part 2, Dead and Buried, The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, Wolfen, and many others.

Some students voiced their opinions on horror movies:

"I like horror movies because I like the killing and I like to be scared."
Dee Dee Fearn

"I like the element of surprise, also, I like when my girlfriend jumps all over me when she gets scared!"
Paul Pearce

"Keeps me in suspense, not like the other movies I've seen."
Mike Connot

"I'm a horror movie freak because I love the surprise and shock they bring, even though I keep my hands over my eyes because some parts are too gross."
Angela Sowers

1. Drilling for a reason. Mike Leach may have a future as a carpenter . . . or a dentist!

2. Oh boy, am I hungry! Yadira Aleman can't decide which kind of food she should put in her mouth first.

High School Increases in in Size and Knowledge

High school was different in many ways from junior high. Sometimes it took a student a while to adjust. Others adjusted very easily.

Obviously high school was bigger and had a lot more students. For some students their junior high school was closer to home.

At high school the classes were longer but there were only six periods instead of seven. There were also more elective classes to choose from. High school started earlier but ended at about the same time as the junior high schools. High school was also much more active. They had more sports teams, more activities, and more clubs.

"I feel that Junior High was a lot better. I enjoyed going to school much more than I do now."
Jack VanderMolen

"The yearbook class in high school was a lot harder than the one in junior high. Mainly because there was a lot more work involved since the high school yearbook is bigger.

I like high school better because there are a lot of activities to get involved in which makes it a more funner school."
Sandi Silva

"High school in some ways seemed to be a bit easier than junior high. The activities and spirit at high school is much better, though."

Stashing Trash

Trash here has been a big problem throughout the years, but since we have brought more trash cans onto the campus, the problem has been shaping up. Students have been more conscientious in keeping the campus clean. They have realized that throwing trash in the trash cans was not as hard as it seemed.

Supervision began a new procedure to help keep the campus clean. When a student had a detention that he or she could not serve, he could have asked permission from Mr. Infusino or Ms. Pyle to pick up trash at lunch instead. This also helped to keep the trash off of the grounds.

Trash was being cleaned up around campus this year. With all the trash cans and people helping we have made this campus a clean one.

1. Here, I'm open! Rob Linquist assists on the play of stash your trash.

2. Be on your guard, Oilers! The first place prize for Homecoming Decorations went to the Freshman Class — the first time in many years.

Decathlon

Team Number

One In District

The expressions, "great," "fantastic," "outstanding" were used to welcome home the 1981-82 Academic Decathlon team after they had very successfully competed in the Orange County Academic Decathlon. WHS had the highest scores of the schools in the district and placed 10th overall of the fifty high schools participating in the competition.

The junior/senior team consisted of six students on the regular team: Ennis Ogawa, George Hassapis, Tim Yasumatsu, Steve Han, Greg Miller, and Eduardo Sanchez with four students on the alternative team: Paul Arnold, Kermit Marsh, Brian Kingsbury, and Jim Lindsay.

Individual recognition was given Greg Miller for 1st place in the Super Quiz with Steve Han and Ennis Ogawa placing 2nd and 3rd. Kermit Marsh received a 3rd place (Honor Division) in writing an essay on a quotation from Shakespeare's Twelfth Night ("Be not afraid of greatness . . .") while Steve Han placed 2nd in Mathematics (Scholastic Division).

The competitors had much to say about their participation from, it was "challenging" to, it was "Hard work!" "The Super Quiz was fun, but the individual academic examinations were nerve racking." There were a lot of good schools competing and as Steve Han put it, "The competition was a humbling experience. It is one thing to be a 'hot shot' in one's school; it is another to compete with so many others from other schools."

The team members expressed their gratitude and respect to Miss Carol Sebastian for her time, involvement, and encouragement. As Dr. Eastwood said, "It couldn't have been done without her."

1. Looking all "spiffed" up. Jim Lindsay, Eduardo Sanchez, Brian Kingsbury, George Hassapis, and Kermit Marsh decide how they should pose for the photograph.

2. Our Academic Decathlon team: Top Row — Jim Lindsay, George Hassapis, Kermit Marsh.
Front Row — Eduardo Sanchez, Steve Han, Brian Kingsbury.

It's Only the Beginning

The class of 1985 began the year by setting a goal to get the freshmen involved. To reach this goal they planned to decorate Buckingham Square for the various occasions, compete in class competitions, work concessions, sock hops, car washes, and to sell assorted items.

At pep rallies they showed an abundant amount of spirit, and in class competitions they put up a good fight. Through these efforts, the class of 1985 was well on their way to meeting their goal.

1. Oh no . . . not another test! Patricia Lim studies diligently for one of Mrs. Butler's French tests.

3. Finishing up Students take last minute bites as the passing bell rings.

1. Maybe you put too much spin on it. Tennis coach, Sherrie Baie takes a look at one of her player's swings, trying to decide just what needs improving.

Dr. Eastwood Reigns Again

Dr. Lee Eastwood had been principal of Marlest High School in Palos Verdes since 1976.

Our Principal is no stranger to Orange County. After serving four years as a lieutenant and captain in the United States Marine Corps with duty as an infantry commander in Vietnam, he became a teacher of music, history and psychology at Orange High School in 1968. Then he served as dean of students at that school for a year before becoming assistant principal at El Modena High School, another school in the Orange Unified School District. He held that position from 1974 to 1976.

Dr. Eastwood earned his doctorate in administration and curriculum in 1978 from the University of Southern California. He also holds a BA in music and a MA in history.

His wife is also an educator. She is an assistant principal in Santa Ana. The couple has been married fifteen years and their ten year old son Robert, live in North Long Beach.

Dr. Eastwood says his hobbies include reading, music, raquetball and running.

Old faces in New Places

Since the recent cutbacks many teachers have had to move to teach another subject. Here were some of the switches made.

Transferred to the English department was Mr. Brennen, who formerly taught Traffic and Safety. Mr. Bowman moved from Social Studies and Mrs. Woodington from P.E. Both began a new career of teaching English.

The math department received Mr. Borchert from Traffic and Safety, Mrs. Seitzinger, from Social Studies, who quotes, "I would rather be teaching in a field that I had a major in such as Social Studies," and Mr. Story from the Auto department.

E.S.L. required many teachers. They included Mr. Kral from choir, Miss Butler from French, Ms. Holey and Ms. Swemba from P.E., also Mr. Wells from Social Studies.

The loss of our counselors has also put some of them in teaching positions. Miss Tostado is working in E.S.L., Mr. Grebbien in Special Education and Mr. Alveraz began teaching math and Spanish.

1. Auto Buff. Mr. Atterbury demonstrates the length needed in an auto project.

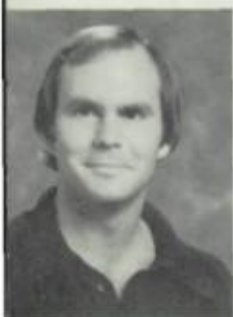

2. Ha! HA! HA! Mrs. Dorman finds one of her students jokes amusing.

3. Papers, papers and more papers. Mr. Boyles thumbs through many papers teachers seem to accumulate.

4. Dignified Day. Mr. Brennen comes out of the classroom calmly, unlike last year in Drivers Ed.

5. Coaches Conference. Coach Waters, Coach Bosswell and Coach Arguello discuss the techniques of being a coach.

Lion Teachers Reign in the Classroom and After Hours.

In addition to the daily grind of teaching classes, several teachers were involved in extra school activities during the year. Mrs. Swenson, a Spanish teacher, could often be found in her classroom during lunch advising the Spanish Club. "Spanish Club is fun and not really hard to prepare for." Mrs. Swenson continued, "We do need to get better organized! . . . It is a fun group, especially our end of the year luncheon."

Mrs. Erdman also a Spanish teacher was the advisor of the Yearbook. Meeting deadlines, proofreading and making difficult decisions all went into advising the Yearbook.

Mr. Dewenter and Mrs. Tanner, both favorites in the Science department, helped contribute to school activities, also. Mr. Dewenter could be seen out on the track helping the track team. "I really enjoy running, so I look forward to this period." quotes Mr. Dewenter.

Mrs. Tanner got involved with activities by advising the Junior class. Her help with stuffed animals and other fundraisers made the Junior class what it was.

Schools activities, clubs and traditions all contributed to a great year. It was those teachers with an extra measure to give that made it a year the Lions took the reign.

1. Helpful Helper. Mrs. Baker helps her student, Susan Mitchell, better understand the assignment.

2. Tire Changes. Wayne Smith tries his hand at changing a tire.

3. Hard Workers. Students are hard at work in Mr. Deeley's drafting class.

Classifieds Pull

Did you ever wonder who it was that kept the school running? No, not the teachers or the administrators, but a certain class of people that really made the school function. "Classifieds," as they are called, they are the people who worked at the school typing, cleaning, preparing, filing, advising and repairing. Librarians, secretaries, Guidance Tech, Custodians, Maintenance crews and Cafeteria workers all helped the school run smoothly.

"The cafeteria workers do a great job considering what they have to work with."

Matt Mitchell

"Thanks to the maintenance crew our lives are a lot easier. They fixed everything including my cat."

Students Discover a New Aspect in Math

Through the year, many students found themselves exploring many different areas where math could be applied, whether it was in one of the basic courses or in an advanced course such as Math Analysis. Every topic learned in the math classes could be applied to everyday practices. At times it might have been somewhat difficult for a student to understand exactly what was going on, but many teachers did their best to help the student comprehend the problem or just let the student try to search out the problem by finding the answers himself.

Teachers Express Opinion

Mr. Dewenter, Mrs. Tanner, Mrs. Marston and Mr. Matza expressed opinions about their funny experiences, successful students and the joys of teaching.

Mr. Dewenter quotes, "What I enjoy most about teaching is being the gruff person such that all students are afraid of me. It gives me a sense of power. The type of students I expect to succeed are those who bring me Twinkies."

Mrs. Tanner says, "What I enjoy the most about teaching is the learning process I go through myself. I remember to put myself in the students position as often as possible. The funniest experience I have ever had in the classroom was when I caught a student cheating. I was in a good mood so I blurted out, "You little @&$X@!" and I meant to say, 'You little cheat!' The whole class roared and I turned as red as a beet. I apologized quickly."

Mrs. Marston said, "I enjoy seeing, lightbulbs come on in my students minds when they grasp a new idea or concept . . . Breakthrough thinking."

Mr. Matza quotes, "I enjoy students coming back to see me after finishing my class and telling me how I helped them in some way in their life. I also expect all to succeed. Some simply do better. Success however cannot really be measured in a class grade.

1. Lectures, lectures and more lectures. Ms. Hall discusses ERA with her students.

2. Best Dressed. Mrs. Whitworth, Mrs. Tanner, Mrs. Iverson and Mr. Infusino show off their best clothes.

3. Humorous Homework. Mrs. Whitworth finds her work somewhat amusing.

4. Aspiring actors. Mr. Kral gives his class a few pointers about the field of acting.

The Super Sport of Scuba

What's that??? We had Scuba Diving???? Yes that's right we had scuba diving here during the first quarter. Scuba diving was offered instead of regular P.E. It was first offered to juniors and seniors but if there was an opening, a lower classman could enroll in it also. All participants had to take a swimming test, first by treading water for ten minutes then by swimming a short distance. The students were in the water for three days and in classroom instructions for the other two. They first learned to dive with a snorkel, then later they started to use the air tanks. They were all provided a chance to go and meet different people by going on trips that were set up for them. At the end of the course any of the students who wanted to get their diving license could, for a small fee of eighty three dollars. All in all the scuba class turned out to be a great success and a wonderful experience for all who participated.

Science, Not Just a Basic for Students

"E=MC squared," a familiar formula in science, is much more involved than that; it covers a great deal of knowledge. Throughout the four years at WHS, the requirement for science was one year, this could have been accomplished by taking one semester of physical and one semester of life science. Physiology, physics, and chemistry were some of the more advanced classes, students chose to take. Basic physical science, physical science, and life science, were classes students could take to start-off.

The science program prepared students who were going to college. It gave them basic and advanced knowledge to help them understand the basics to fields that will never be fully researched and completely known.

Lions Take the Reign in Academics and Honors

Valedictorians Reign in Academics

Valedictorian is the highest step of academics. To become a valedictorian a student must achieve a 4.0 grade average through all four years of high school. The students cannot take easy and less demanding classes and get a 4.0 and become a valedictorian. The student must take the higher academically inclined classes. Obviously, becoming a valedictorian is difficult to achieve.

Ennis Ogawa, Carrie Baker, and Joe Meilak were the students who have achieved this goal.

Carrie Baker was Interact's vice-pres., senior class treasurer, a member of CSF for four years, on the varsity volleyball and varsity basketball teams and various campaigns concerning school improvement.

Joe Meilak was in CSF four years, Chemistry student of the year in 1981, and was a paid aide in the attendance office.

Ennis Ogawa enjoyed band and SCF for four years. He participated in the Latin club and the academic decathlon, was a member of the Southern California Kendo Federation and graduated from an Orange County Japanese school.

These students well deserve the honor they worked for. We congratulate them for helping the Lions take the reign in academics.

1. A Moment for Humor. Aside from his pressing studies, Ennis enjoys a good laugh during class.

2. Reading for Enrichment. Carrie is absorbed in a most interesting book.

3. Studying Hard. Joe works hard in his classes to maintain his 4.0 average.

4. Concentration. Ennis listens carefully to his teacher's lecture.

5. CSF Sealbearers — Top row — Gary Blakesly, Marty Yee, Darren Smith, Paul Johnson, Chris Knehans, Don Petka, Joe Meilak, Jim Lindsday, Steve Han. Middle row — Mike Buenafe, Chau Vu, Tom Yin, Paula Engel, Tran Duong, Carrie Baker, Lorraine Beza, Celeste Rodriguez, Laurie Bowman, Patty Nevarez. Front row — Arnold Asis, Marie Garcia, Pennee Davis, Lisa O'Brien, Jerilyn Higa, Sue Romine, Cindy Otto.

Sealbearers Pursue Excellence

There is a select group of seniors, who, with hard work and dedication to study, have earned the status of Sealbearer. To become a Sealbearer they must have qualified for membership in the California Scholarship Federation for four of the six semesters in their sophomore, junior, and senior years. They were eligible to wear the gold tassel for graduation, and the Federation Chapter Seal was put on their diplomas and school records. A special privilege card was available to those seniors who attained Sealbearer status at the end of the first semester of their senior year. This handful of students was commended for their outstanding achievements in the academic curriculum and has earned the recognition of their parents, their peers, and their school.

Mark Stricklin Reigns As Student of the Year

The student of the year, Mark Stricklin was involved in many school activities. He was the Associated Student Body President, the founding member of CARE, temporary service chairman for TEPS, writer for the Scroll "From the House", and was very active in activities for the Senior class.

As President of the Student Body, he was responsible for all of the activities that were planned by the House of Lords. His major accomplishment was to start the student store. He also was a performer for the CABARET. He also provided all of the leg work for the show. He was also a major dancer in the spring musical, THE BOY FRIEND. He did the majority of the choreography for the Foxy Frolics group he was in, THE LONDON SWEEPERS. Mark was the Boy's State Representative, too.

Obviously, Mark Stricklin more than qualifies for this honor.

Herbie Campbell and Dana Haskins Reign as Athletes of the Year

Herbie Campbell was involved in many sports in high school, making this title well deserved. He was in football all four years. He played volleyball and was in track.

Aside from sports, Herbie worked at a supermarket as a boxboy. In his spare time, he enjoyed surfing, jogging, and lifting weights.

Dana Haskins truly deserved the honor of being Most Valuable Athlete. She excelled in volleyball, soccer, and gymnastics — achieving a letter in gymnastics her freshman year. She was chosen Most Improved in volleyball, and Most Valuable in soccer.

Dana enjoyed three years with AYSO and Club Soccer team, and was with SCATS Gymnastic Academy for four years.

Danny Wong and Lisa Cox honored as Most Inspirational Athletes

Danny Wong earned and deserved this title having done an outstanding job on the football, baseball, and basketball teams throughout his high school years. His participation in these sports taught him sportsmanship, team concept, competition, and how to stay in shape. Danny has planned to compete four years of college and someday own his own business.

Lisa Cox was chosen as the Most Inspirational Athlete, involved in volleyball, field hockey, and softball. She loved all sports — volleyball her favorite — but unfortunately, she got hurt before the season and could not be on the starting team. She got involved though, and was at the games. Lisa's extracurricular activities included CSF and Bible Study meetings, as well as riding her bike and reading.

Physiology Has a Heart

Physiology, a class on human anatomy, was a science course designed for college-bound students. It covered every system in the body in great detail. The students had to endure working on fetal pigs, first skinning them and then dissecting each part. They also dissected sheep's eyes, heart, brain and various other organs. Even though it may sound gruesome, very few people were affected. One student was heard saying, "It is rough at first, but then you get used to it." This class enabled students to get a basic knowledge to continue in medical careers or the such. Mr. De Wenter made the class lighthearted and easy to learn by keeping a humorous attitude. Many of his students were heard saying something profound, like "The con condiloid process of the mandible articulates with the mandibular fossa of the temporal bone."???

"Don Quijote" Sparks Conversa- tion in Spanish Three-Four

The advanced Spanish class read the classic novel of Don Quijote by Miguel Cervantes and used it as a basis for conversation in the native language of its origin. Also studied were various pieces of literature from the Generation of 98 in Spain. The Spanish culture was highlighted in films in the language, such as Ya Vamos a Mexico and parts of the text called Natas Hispanicas. The students also studied civilization of Spain from the origins to present day.

Spanish art by the classic painters Goya, El Greco, and Velazquez, composed a unit in the cause with the art work displayed on the bulletin board and discussed in Spanish.

Julio Iglesias, the top recording artist in Spain gave the class a musical flair by beginning each period on a high note. His songs were memorized on the enthusiastic students.

Listening and speaking skills were stressed by instructor, Linda Erdman. Realizing the importance of a fluency in Spanish for any Californian, the students were eager to learn.

Joanne Goddard. I learned about English grammar, as well as Spanish.

Michele Delgado. I learned a lot from the grammar lessons. Everything meant something special to me, even the Spanish songs.

Craig Hayden. Spanish 3 is a very informative, and helpful class. There isn't a job around that, if you know it, it would hurt you at your job.

Jeff Amparano and Donna St. Jean. Spanish 3+4 was an interesting class. Our teacher, Mrs. Erdman, was very nice, and she always got the point through to us.

Barbara Arnold. Me gusta espanol 3 y 4 porque — We had some great times. I for one, learned a lot.

Journalism Students Prepare for a Possible Career

Yearbook and Newspaper were two forms of Journalism offered on campus. Yearbook was rather more of a job than just a regular class normally attended. The class was a staff of people dedicated to produce an excellent yearbook. The staff often stayed after school for those deadlines and to finish up some undone work. The editors were often drawing and redrawing lay-outs and checking and cropping pictures. The rest of the staff wrote stories, took pictures, and other odd jobs. The people were always kept on their "toes" by the stern hand of Shelley Segars.

Newspaper was the other form of Journalism offered. The newspaper was put out once a month and the magazine Harvest was published twice a year. Newspaper discussed the various activities and functions around the school and the current events in the community.

1. Life of a Sports Writer. The Yearbook's sports editor, Tony Rivas looks a little concerned.

2. What Do You Want? Mrs. Linda Erdman looks toward the camera with a questioning look.

3. That's Cute! Dawn Schnell and Christy Zimmerman look at pictures in the yearbook room.

4. Reading is to the Mind As . . . Robert Tiano looks through a journalism book on his extra time.

5. Let's See . . . Kevin Marlin and Linda Langly work hard on some stories that are going in the next newspaper.

AP English Students Hit the Books

Advanced Placement English was a college level course designed to prepare its students for College Advanced Placement Examinations. If the students pass these, they each get a year's worth of English credit in addition to the normal credits. To this end, they work at a higher level than the other English courses offered.

Mrs. Karen Friedrich and Mrs. Flossie Sellers each taught this course. Out of all the students at this school, only sixty qualified for this class. As a result, these two teachers each have one class of thirty students in them.

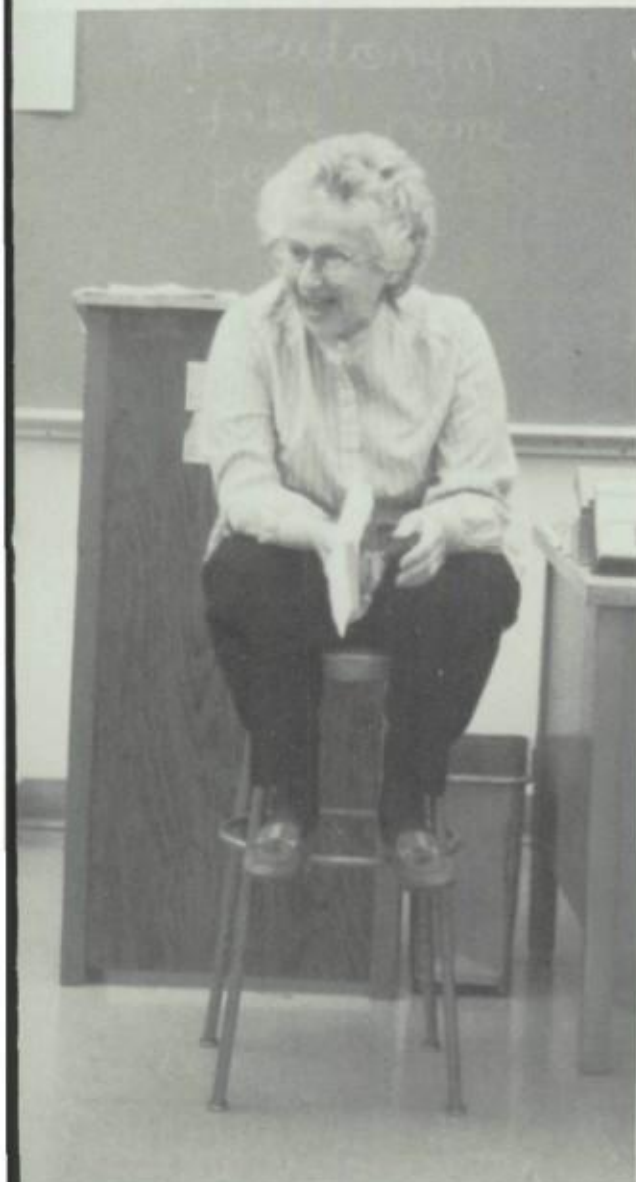

The emphasis of the class study was on British Literature, classics, and major contemporary authors. Among these authors were Joseph Heller (Catch-22), J.D. Salinger (The Catcher in the Rye), and Ray Bradbury (The Martian Chronicles).

The classes read six major plays through both semesters, as well as one full-length novel every two weeks. Rather than just studying poetry like other classes, the students studied the elements of writing a poem. They also studied how books are written.

Everyone in the class was encouraged to do original research. They were to choose several authors of either poetry or prose. Then, they did an indepth study of each one. All things considered, Advanced Placement English was a tough course for those who could do the work.

Dear Mrs. Swenson, Mrs. Erdman, and Heike:

these were the best of times! I will always remember all of the crazy Spanish Club meetings and those long nights working on the yearbook. Most of all I will remember all the fun times I had with Heike. Thanks for being my friends,

Love Lisa

Well this is it! Four long years of homework, tests, teachers and friends have come to an end — but they will not be forgotten! Never! How could I ever forget Sammy Stovall? Impossible! And good ol' Mashie? How about Swenny? Or faithful Disneyland Dwight! Not to mention I L, beard and all! And of course Ken bud! It's to all these teachers — and others — I bid my last farewell (for now!). What? Did you say band? How can we forget those wonderful days with I.J.? It was much more enjoyable when he brought Gregg along! Oh joy!! My best wishes to those that continue the great Lion Band. I look forward to the time the band tops the 1978-79 edition (The best band this school's had!). Oh don't worry — I'll be back to visit, and pass out drinks at the home games next fall! (AAARRCH). Of course, what would school be without friends? Giggles, Librarian, Kathy, Michelle, Helen, Hong-Anh, Monica, Sherry, Rick, Stew, and all my other wonderful friends — I wish you the best of luck! Thanks. WHS, for four great years! Goodbye!! Look out, world — here I come! — PAUL JOHNSON

To my Spanish I classes ('80-'81 & '81-'82) you were terrific and I enjoyed being your teacher. The very best to you all — I love you all.

TO THE SOPHOMORE FOOTBALL TEAM (1981) — Congratulations on your fantastic season. I really enjoyed having most of you in my classes. Good luck in the future — maybe C.I.F. champs? I love you.

Mrs. Swenson

P.S. I love you Bob, Robert, and Stephanie.

Four things you should know:

Are you going to heaven?

Every single one of us has sinned.
"For all have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God." Romans 3:23

Because you have sinned, you are doomed to eternal death ...
"For the wages of sin is death ..." Romans 6:23a

... unless you accept the gift of eternal life, and ask Jesus Christ into your heart.

"... but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ, our Lord." Romans 6:23b

That's all there is too it! Jesus' death on the cross takes the place of your death—if only you believe.

"That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." Romans 10:9

Bienvenido Erick Christopher Erdman al mundo de California. Tu padre, Liesel, y yo nos alegramos mucho de conocerte. Algún día vas a ser muy importante. Te queremos mucho.

1. They Look Great? Members of various squads all seem to be occupied about one thing or another during a halftime break.

2. A Quick Pep Talk, Receiving a quick set of instructions from Coach Swemba, J.V. Volleyball seems ready to beat their opponents.

3. Just Doing My Job, Doing one of his many tasks as Barbara Atwoods aide, Paul Pierce separates some ballots for an upcoming election.

4. Not Literally of Course, This is one of many decorations that covered the campus the week of the Westminster vs. Marina football game.

5. Singing in the Rain, Varsity polo player Joe Schuck doesn't seem to enjoy the spur of the moment rain shower.

6. Oops, I think We Made A Mistake, Looking at an agenda for the House of Lords activities, Robin Schmall and Philip Fabian discover a humorous error.

Lions Take the Reign

Shrieks of excitement still fill the halls, but for a different reason. Summer is here. Bathing suits are visible under clothes and sandals are a must for the hot days ahead. Final exams are over and signing yearbooks are the only things causing writers cramp. Smiles are apparent on most faces, although many Seniors face a scary and uncertain futures. The year has, on a whole, been a successful one, but finally yet sadly at a close.

David,

I'm really glad I met
you. You're a really nice guy.
It's a bummer we have to go to summer school but hopefully it will go by fast. It was fun having you in my reading class. Hope you're in one of my classes next year. Keep in touch.

Egon

David,

Hi, It's been real fun in the lab. I hope we have another class together next year. You're a real nice & funny person. Stay that way.

Dave,
Good luck
this summer.
Don't run over any pedestrians.
